WILL SAYS FLYERS COULD UNDO HARM DONE BY DIPLOMATS

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 14.—At Sacramento yesterday, nineteen army planes reached an altitude of 30,000 feet. It was 40 below zero, and all used oxygen tanks.

WILL ROGERS

When one flyer used to reach that altitude we thought it was a miracle. Yet here was nineteen flying in formation. These are the greatest air maneuvers ever held. That's one mighty satisfying thing about our country, our fine young men can get us ready for wars faster than our diplomats can talk us into them.

It took 40 experts and statesmen three months in London to sink the poor Utah and Florida. These nineteen would have sunk London, including all the delegations, before breakfast any morning.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Census Taking Task In City Is Near Completion

Expect Most Of City Enumerators
To Have Returns
Finished By Wednesday

BROWN ASKS PEOPLE
TO AID WITH WORK

While a majority of the census enumerators in the city districts are still at work on their task of counting the population of the city, they should be pretty well finished with their work by Wednesday. In some of the more thickly populated districts, they may not finish before the end of the week.

In order to make sure that every person in the city has been counted, Census Supervisor Brown is appealing to every resident of the city to assist in making the job a most complete and thorough one.

If residents know of any one who has been away from home and is not liable to return before the work has been completed here, they should report such facts to the census supervisor.

If anyone was not at home when the enumerator called and know that they will not be at home when a return call is made, they should call 926 and ask that a family schedule be sent them, so that they may make a return and be counted in the 1930 census.

People who have moved from one section of the city to another and who have been missed by the enumerator should also report this fact to Census Supervisor Brown and a family schedule will be sent them.

If they have been at home and know that the enumerator has not yet visited their particular street, they should not report this at this time, as the work is not entirely completely in many districts.

Supervisor Brown is extremely anxious that none be missed in the count being made at the present time, however, and the alertness of local residents will assist in seeing that this is done.

As soon as all enumerators have filed their final reports, a checkup will be started to make sure that their figures are correct and that none have been missed in their respective districts.

In cases where people are temporarily absent from the city, and it is felt that they may have been missed by the enumerator, through no person reporting this fact, relatives or friends are asked to call Mr. Brown at 926.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS

Citizens Urge Council To Make Award To New Castle Bidder

Council met today in formal session at city hall and awarded to Woods & Golder, New Castle, a contract for the repaving with concrete of Croton avenue, Grant street and Butler avenue, at a bid of $93,382.50.

The city engineer recommended the contract be awarded to the Victor Olsen Construction company, of Youngstown, at a bid of $93,172.00, or a bid $210.50 lower than that of Woods & Golder Construction company.

Councilman Stanley Treser offered a motion that the council concur in the recommendation but it was voted down by Mayor W. H. Gillespie, Councilman W. T. Burns and Clayton Reeves.

The motion that won the award for Woods & Golder Construction company was submitted by Councilman Reeves and supported by Mayor Gillespie and Councilman Burns. Councilmen Genkinger and Treser opposed the motion.

Senator George T. Weingartner, Emanuel Shenken, William Moody, Dr. Harry Rosenthal, Attorney Frank Hoover and James Rae appeared before council and argued in favor of the contract being awarded to a local contractor.

More Local Employment

Weingartner argued it could be done legally and like the others maintained it would result in more local employment, purchase of supplies here and the money would be kept in New Castle.

John Patterson, John Reese, Councilmen Genkinger, Michael Mulcahy and John Burns also addressed council. They generally said that no difference would occur if the contract went to the low bidder, the Victor Olsen company.

The city engineer recommended that the contract be awarded to the Victor Olsen Construction company at a low bid of $93,172.00. The recommendation said that the state highway department's division engineer was satisfied that the contract should be awarded to the lowest responsible financial bidder.

Solicitor White advised council there is nothing in the act of assembly concerning financial responsibility and Mayor Gillespie in reply to a question remarked the recommendation had been made by Engineer Miller.

Councilman Stanley Treser offered a motion that reinforced concrete be the repaving material and the motion was passed unanimously. He next offered a motion to concur in the (Continued On Page Fourteen)

Swick Assured Rivers Survey Provided For

Rivers And Harbors Bill Will Carry Appropriation For Local Project

IS FIRST STEP IN COMPLETION OF PLAN

Word has been received by local officers of the Shenango, Mahoning, and Beaver River Association, that the Rivers and Harbors bill, which will be reported in Congress Wednesday, will carry authorization for a survey of the Shenango, Mahoning, and Beaver rivers.

Definite assurance of this fact was given Congressman J. Howard Swick, by Chairman Dempsey of the Rivers and Harbors committee on Saturday.

The project which is backed by the Shenango, Mahoning, and Beaver River Association, contemplates canalization of these streams in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, by slackwatering these streams, to eventually provide a waterway from Rochester, Pa., to Lake Erie.

This would provide a river outlet for the local district in two different directions, namely towards Lake Erie and via Ohio river.

The Association which was formed in New Castle last fall, of which E. W. Beadel is a vice president and A. W. Chilton, secretary, has been working hard for the consummation of these plans, and the assurance that the survey will be provided for, means that the first step will have been completed.

District Attorney Is Fined $2,500 In Court Contempt

Pottsville District Attorney Also Disbarred—Must Pay $2,500 Or Three Months

(International News Service)
POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 14.—District Attorney Charles A. Snyder was sentenced today to pay a fine of $2,500 for contempt of court, or serve three months in jail.

Snyder gave the required security for the contempt at once and was released from the custody of the sheriff.

The defendant had appealed to the supreme court and was granted a supersedeas staying sentence automatically until the hearing set by the higher court as May 12.

Snyder was also disbarred by the local court sitting en banc and appealed from that ruling.

The charges against Snyder grew out of his alleged attacks on Judge Henry Houck and his father when the jurist was a political candidate for the office he now holds.

It was alleged that Snyder caused to be circulated a cartoon in which he pictured the jurist as a mannikin, controlled by his father.

Judge Koch said today when sentence was passed that it was the unanimous opinion of the court that Snyder was guilty of contempt and that he had dragged the business of the district attorney's office into political speeches to such an extent as to make the trial of cases in court impossible with fairness to defendants.

Arrest Trio Here; Who Broke Jail At McDonald, O.

Three young men giving the names of Jack Hake, Jim Green and Lewis Nyada, about twenty years of age, were picked up on an east bound Pennsylvania freight train near Mahoning avenue, about five o'clock Sunday morning by City Officer Robert Hanna and Pennsylvania Officer Mont Richards and taken to the city police station, pending action against them as trespassers.

Shortly after their apprehension, McDonald, Ohio, police authorities advised the local police station that three young men and a girl named Eva Goodheart, aged 15, the latter said to be from here, had broken jail earlier in the evening at that place.

Investigation proved that the three young men apprehended riding the Pennsylvania freight train were the three wanted at McDonald and the authorities there were notified to that effect.

E. C. Johnson, an officer of that place, arrived here later Sunday and took the young men back to that place.

Saw a moving truck from Washington D. C., parked on Washington street, this morning.

British In Accord

Mr. MacDonald indicated that the British also adhered to this agreement.

Mr. MacDonald summing up the reports adopted said they provide "raw material for drafting the treaty." The drafting committee is working day and night and it was hoped, he added that the document could be ready for signing Thursday, but that it was a physical impossibility.

"We hope, however, to have everything ready by next Tuesday."

Among the reports adopted unanimously was the draft resolution humanizing submarine warfare.

The conference authorized the drafting committee and the committee of experts assisting them to make any slight alterations necessary in drafting the treaty providing that the substance of none of the agreements and provisions is changed.

Foreign Minister Briand is returning to Paris this afternoon and Foreign Minister Grandi will depart for Rome tomorrow. Neither was decided whether he would return for the signing ceremonies.

It was reported today that Admiral Takanabe, one of the chief Japanese delegates, had requested his government for permission to leave London before the signing of the treaty "in order to avoid putting his signature to documents to which the navy disapproves." This report could not be confirmed.

It was learned that the various nations made numerous reservations to the compromise agreement on methods of limitation. The conference was unable to adopt all these reservations, merely taking note of them. It is unlikely they will form part of the completed treaty.

Secretary Stimson announced following conference with chief Japanese delegate Reijiro Wakatsuki that an agreement had been reached permitting ten per cent transfers between light cruisers and destroyers and vice versa. Premier MacDonald indicated Britain's willingness to accept this agreement.

MOON'S DEVIATION MAKES CENTER OF SOLAR ECLIPSE PATH DIFFICULT

By Arthur De V. Carpenter.

The solar eclipse occurring April 23 to observers in California, a little of Nevada and of Oregon, and across Idaho, will have a very narrow path of totality. In fact, it will be but about one-half a mile wide. The apparent diameter of the moon will just barely cover up the entire sun for one and one-half seconds. The moon's position deviates a little so that the center of the path of totality is very difficult to locate. To be sure of getting photographs of the solar corona, individuals with cameras will be stationed at right angles to the path of totality to make sure that one or more of them may be within the path of totality.

Price was acquitted, but his alleged associates were convicted.

Blame Sympathizers

Authorities believe that some sympathizers of the convicted men were responsible for the fatal shooting.

The testimony offered by Wright at the trial alleged that District Attorney Price knew and approved of the stills and alcohol cooking plants then under operation.

Skiff Is Found

The skiff used by the slayer was found today floating down the Lemon Deit river. Bloodstains were found on one of the thwart, Sheriff reported. The craft was traced to its owner who said he had locked it up yesterday. The lock had been broken.

Price's campaign against liquor interests was climaxed by his trial which began one year ago and ended last March 16 with his acquittal before a Federal jury at Madison. Price held a prominent place in Wisconsin politics.

Former Sheriff Wright was removed from office by Gov. Fred Zimmerman following a hearing which resulted from a raid on a giant still at Kilbourn, Wis., the capacity of which was 1,500 gallons of liquor a day. The still was raided on information given by Price.

to the treasurer, J. C. Miner, Lawrence Savings & Trust company," he said.

Army officers say they have deferred an appeal for a home in New Castle for the past nine years, so that other public campaigns might be conducted unhindered.

The Salvation Army corps in New Castle is one of the oldest in America, first having been opened 48 years ago, just two years after the Salvation Army began its welfare work in this country. Despite this the organization here has never had its own home.

Lawrence county is the only one in western Pennsylvania without an Army home, the officials say.

Mrs. Lowell 'Fletcher Hobart, Stresses Urgent Need For Americans

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 14.—Stressing the need of America for Americans, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, opened the thirty-ninth Congress of that organization today.

Coming out for adequate national defense, Mrs. Hobart, in her speech, said:

"A constant succession of distinguished men and daring women have brought this nation thus far. But stressed by their fidelity, the United States has become powerful. What do we propose to do as the result of their labors?"

"If they built ships, do we intend to scrap and sink them?"

"If they provided for common defense, shall we shackle our defense forces?"

"If they counselled 'no tangling alliances' can they depend upon you to heed their advice based on knowledge of ancient and contemporary government?"

Mrs. Hobart warned against forces in the country putting out "anti-American propaganda and working in the cause of Bolshevism."

Attempted Robbery Reported To Police

Report was made to the police this morning that a window had been broken in the office of the J. Henry Kline Lumber Company, South Beaver street some time Sunday night.

Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Thomas Lynch answered the call and made the investigation. They found that nothing was missing or disturbed and evidence that the thief had been frightened away before succeeding in his purpose.

If there isn't anything in telepathy, how does a committee of club women know which morning you don't have time to shave?

Somebody insists that congressmen vote as they drink. How could they vote that often?

Again, I Do Not Choose. When Women Start, Beware. Radio And Flying. Gandhi Sick, India Sickly.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE (Copyright, 1930, King Features Syn., Inc.)

WINSLOW, Ariz., April 14. — The Cosmopolitan Magazine put on board this eastbound train at Williams, Ariz., tells you that Calvin Coolidge is through with public office. In his straight-forward statement in Cosmopolitan, the ex-President says he will not run for the Senate. He would be glad to do useful work, but feels that his presence in the Senate, going there from the White House, would embarrass some of his colleagues. It probably would. It would embarrass, especially, those that are publicly dry and privately wet.

However, no man can say that his troubles are all behind him. The ex-President may find himself in office again. He will still be a young man in 1936, when Herbert Hoover finishes his second term. It is a 100 per cent certainty that Mr. Coolidge will make no political mistakes in the meanwhile. He simply does not know how to make them. Is there any doubt that millions of Americans in 1936 will want "four years more of Coolidge?"

Of all misfortunes that can befall a man, one of the worst is to have a band of determined women in league against him. Read Euripides' "The Bacchae" and you will believe it.

Some congressmen will soon believe it also. They are the so-called "water-gin" congressmen accused by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform of carrying gin on one shoulder, water on the other. This organization of women opposed to prohibition intends to attack the dry voting, wet drinking statesmen in their home constituencies.

Among farmers' wives until recently the percentage of insanity was very high. Living isolated lives, working hard from dawn until long after dark, seeing nobody but the sometimes dull, tired husband and farm hands, was bad for the mind. Then came rural free delivery, bringing pictures of the latest fashions, and the telephone, with news of neighbors, finally greatest blessing of all, the radio. Farmers' wives tune in and retain their sanity.

To the exceptional woman, rich, able to do what she pleases but hitherto finding little amusing excitement after sixty, flying offers relief. The British Duchess of Bedford, 64 years old, goes up and down in the earth at a rate of speed that old Satan never dreamed of. She has just started the second leg of flight from London to South Africa, an able pilot and mechanic keeping her company.

You would say that a flying man or woman could write a book "Things I Have Seen" that would eclipse Voltaire's Chocoes, Vuls, "Things Seen," for Voltaire crawled around on the earth's surfaces.

However, not the eyes but the heart and brain do the real seeing. No body, for instance, could see a landscape as Claude Lorraine could see it. No one else sees a baby as its mother sees it.

Gandhi, starved Hindu, whose sincerity causes the British Empire more anxiety than all his 300,000,000 fellow Hindus combined, learns as other enthusiasts have done, that the spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak. Weighing barely 100 pounds, eating no meat, taking no stimulants, a walk of 200 miles that would seem a joke to an Irishman or a Scotchman, has exhausted him. He cannot go on.

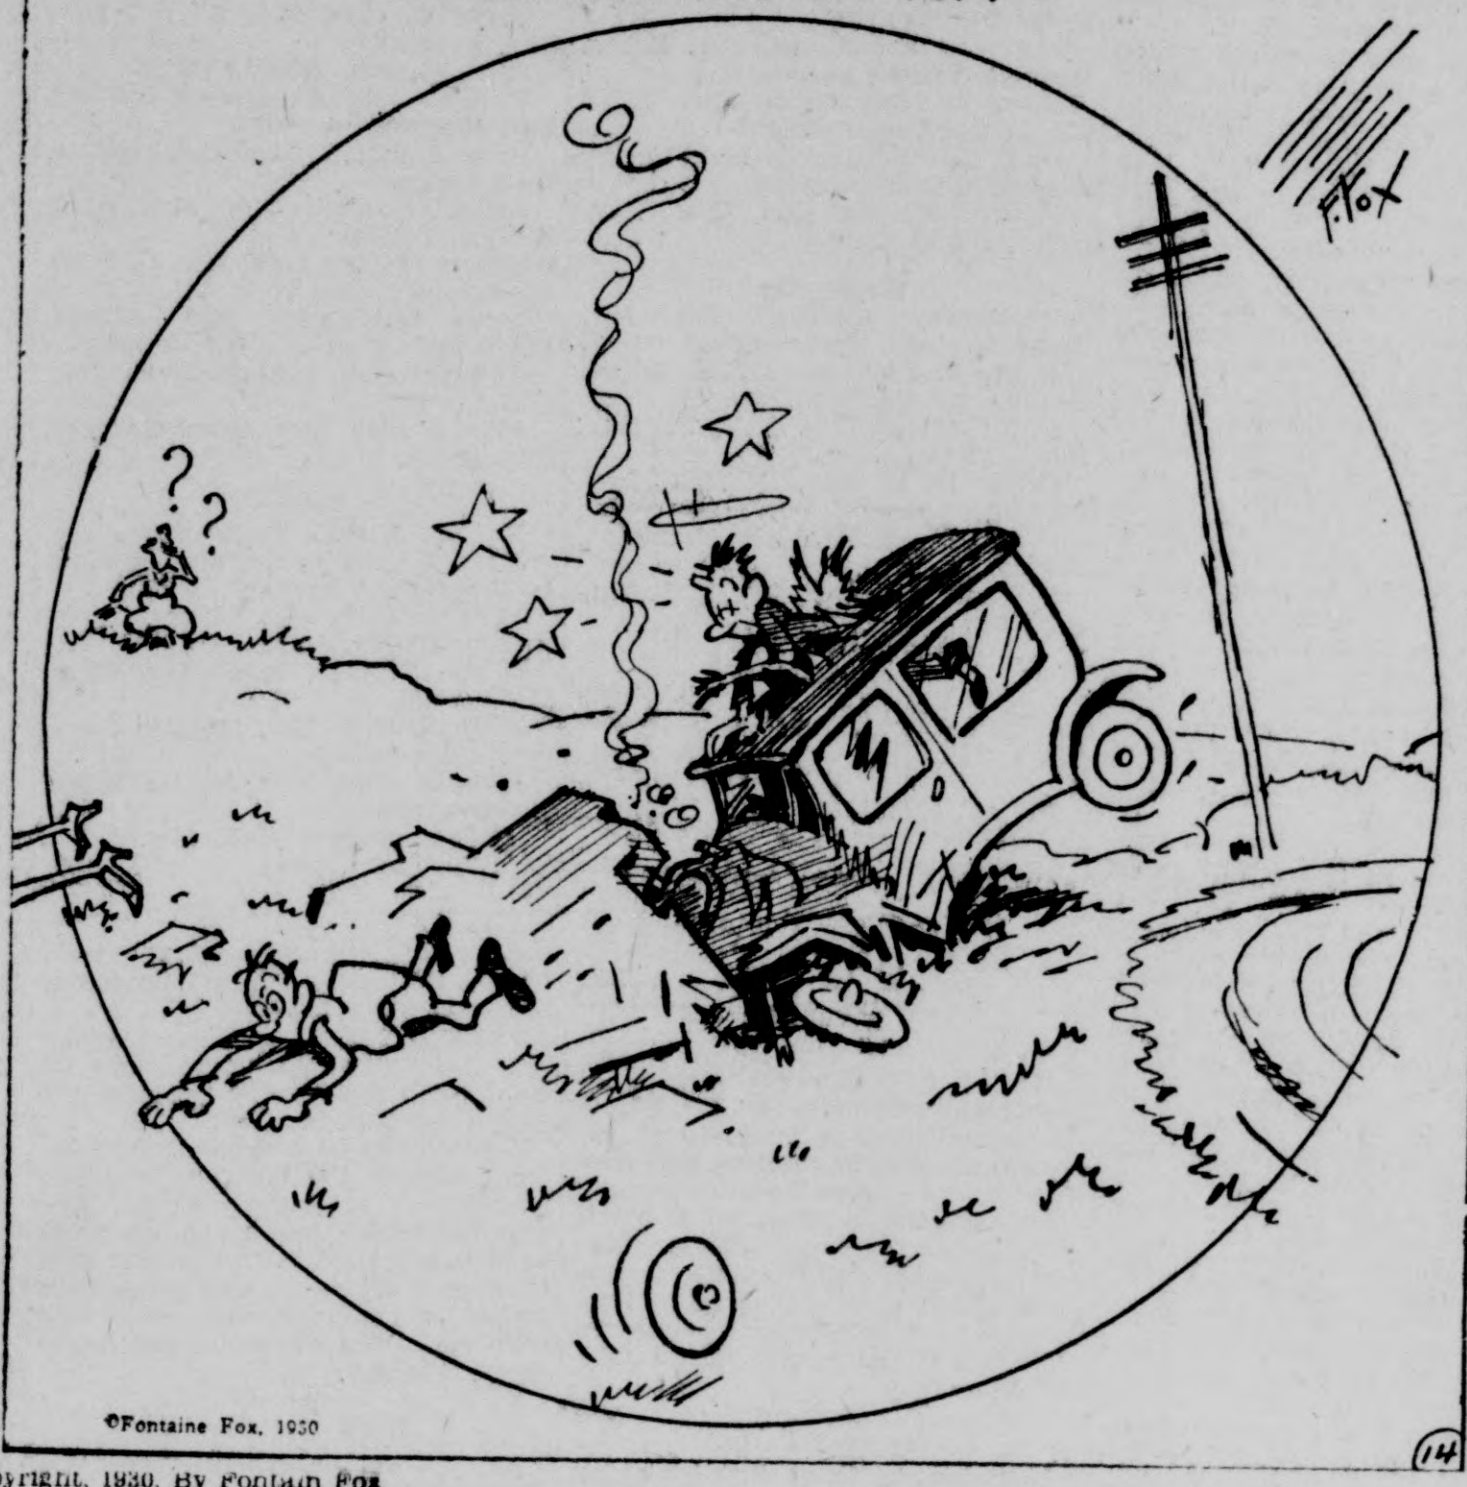

The real problem of India has nothing to do with Great Britain and is illustrated in news of a clash between high-caste Hindus and "untouchables," miserable creatures numbering millions despised by the Hindus of high rank, who consider it a disgrace to even touch them. Many untouchables were cruelly beaten in the past.

Foreign countries are showing more interest in the United States than ever before. It is a favorable opportunity to make touring the country as inviting as possible.

But talk to any manufacturer of ladies wear and he will show you more business problems to the square minute than you will be able to show in a cubic hour. The most difficult of these problems is to dispose of the stock on hand at the close of the season. For the next season the styles may be radically different. The Munificent Ladies' Dress Company found themselves with an unusually large stock of dresses on hand with the season drawing to a close. Reduced prices failed to move the goods. The situation which looked dark to them was suddenly brightened by a brilliant idea which struck one of the partners of the firm. He ordered that a package of seven dresses be made up and shipped to fifty of their customers. To each was sent the following letter: "We are shipping you by express today a package containing six selected dresses which we offer you at the bargain price of $8.40 per dress. Great idea. They would find seven dresses in the package, the letter read six dresses—who would resist keeping them?"

It was three days later when the first stack of replies came from the customers. While their phrasing differed slightly the thought throughout was as one thought: "Gentlemen: We are returning the six dresses we find, upon examination that we have no need for them."

Wide Divergence Of Opinion On Future Of Muscle Shoals

Sharply Differing Views Expressed On Government Control Of Great War Plant Which May Be Factor In Water-Power Situation

Wide differences of opinion are found in the comments that have been made on the action of the United States senate, which, by a vote of 45 to 23, approved the Norris bill for government operation of the Muscle Shoals plant, one of the relics of the World war. The discussion develops no clear national attitude on the question of government control, favorable statements emphasizing the advisability of undertaking a test, while at the same time warning against monopoly under private control and the difficulties involved in attempting a favorable lease. Opposition to the idea is based on emphasis on the desirability of public competition with private business. There is much speculation as to the ultimate attitude of President Hoover, in view of the opposition to the plan when a similar bill went to President Coolidge.

"Whatever one may think of the basic policy involved in the plan for government operation," says the BALTIMORE SUN, "the senate's action in approving it by a vote of 45 to 23 is another remarkable tribute to its author, Senator Norris of Nebraska." In the event that the bill meets some later setback, the Sun declares: "It is a perfectly safe bet that Senator Norris will doggedly state out again to get the bill on the statute books. And if he lives long enough he will unquestionably succeed." The DAYTON DAILY NEWS refers to the fact that "President Coolidge killed the bill with a pocket veto and so Muscle Shoals remained in suspense, but adds that "since the pocket veto there have been significant developments," and "the secret lobbying and wire pulling by which private interests sought possession of the great property have been brought to light."

"The case for the Norris plan," according to the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, "is as valid and unanswerable today as at any previous time. Here is an immense hydroelectric power plant in which the government's investment is, approximately $18,000,000. What a fair price for hydroelectric power is in the United States is not known. What is known is that a Canadian plant of comparable magnitude is operated successfully by the government at rates substantially lower than those charged by private enterprise in this country." The TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL advises that "until there is more evidence that the power industry has an intention of fair play with the public in holding company manipulation, in capitalization, in rates and in other important matters, the public should not for one moment think of turning Muscle Shoals over to it."

"Perhaps it would be well," suggests the CHICAGO TRIBUNE, "to have the CHARTERED EVENING POST, 'to make a test of public ownership of a power generating plant and to see just how the principle actually works. If it is not satisfactory a change could be made at any time. And we should then know how far the power companies had been right in fearing the effect of government operation. It might prove highly successful, although the chances are heavily against that. But the experiment would be interesting and illuminating."

"Every safeguard which could be devised," contends the FLINT DAILY JOURNAL, "has been included in the Norris resolution to prevent the government from entering direct competition to commercial interests. Since no satisfactory arrangement for disposal of the properties to private interests could be worked out, we believe it is the sane and logical thing for the federal government to make use of them for good of the general public."

The repassage impresses the ANTON STAR as "at once a rebuke to President Coolidge and a vindication of the original intent of the Wilson administration in projecting this development, which not only would be the effect of making the United States independent of foreign powers for nitrates in time of war, but will also be of material service to agriculture in time of peace." Approval of the bill comes also from the DULUTH HERALD, the NEW YORK WORLD, the DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT, the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER, the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL, the ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS and the RALEIGH NEWS AND OBSERVER. The Richmond paper says: "It is predicted that President Hoover will veto the Norris resolution when it reaches him. It is hard to believe this. Offering no alternative, if he is, it will place him, finally and for all, on the side of big business and special privilege."

The Asbury Park paper maintains that by any other plan the government is powerless to regulate. "Uncle Sam has no business operating any kind of plant at Muscle Shoals," in the opinion of the NEW YORK SUN. "There is no emergency dictating operation of that kind. The project involves a fantastic and unwarrantable invasion of the realms of private business. No amount of ballyhoo about power trusts and public utilities can conceal the sinister purposes that would be subserved if the Norris plan were finally adopted."

The ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT points out that "many members of congress voted for the Norris resolution in 1928 who were opposed in principle to government ownership but who despaired of a satisfactory arrangement for private operation."

This paper holds that "it is no credit to American intelligence that the solution of this problem has been so long delayed." It believes that President Hoover is opposed to the measure.

"Advocates of government operation," declares the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, "have naturally exploited to the limit the revelations as to use of improper publicity methods by utility companies, also the testimony elicited as to propaganda expenditures for the lease of Muscle Shoals by the senate lobby committee. Such revelations have nothing to do with the principle involved, the undesirability of government operation of business enterprises in competition with private interests, and there is no reason why opponents of such operations should permit themselves to be stampeded into supporting it. The Norris proposal, if passed by the house, invites a presidential veto. Its passage would, therefore, be a mere gesture. The house leadership, it is indicated, will oppose waste of time on such a gesture."

"It is exceedingly regrettable," in the judgement of the CHATTANOOGA TIMES, "that the Muscle Shoals questions, in which the fate of the upper Tennessee has become deeply involved, should have again become entangled in a government operation maneuver, with the alternate prospects of prolonged delay or another plunge toward socialism." The INDIANAPOLIS STAR sees "grave doubt that the plan would meet the expectations of its sponsors." The SPRINGFIELD UNION draws a contrast between the fact that "congress has been talking about Muscle Shoals for more than ten years," and the fact that "business drives ahead while congress and legislatures discuss." The RANGOR DAILY COMMERCIAL states that "Mr. Hoover is known to hold general objection to placing the government in competition with private enterprise."

Quoting a statement by President Hoover against government operation "except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose," the BUTFALCO COMMERCIAL APPEAL comments: "Mr. Hoover is a good practical engineer as well as a politician. Would it really be detrimental to the interests of the United States to let his judgement prevail in a matter of this kind?"

The TULSA WORLD demands that "congress be put on record," while the MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL believes that the matter "will be submerged in political manipulations," and the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PIGAYUNE concludes: "The resolution goes next, of course, to the house, where leaders are quoted as 'uncertain when it will be taken up.' There is at least a possibility of its being held in committee until the present session's close, and thus carried along as 'unfinished business' until after the congressional elections in November."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ANOTHER ANGLE TO MEXICO. Mexican hospitality as described by Harry Carr in the Los Angeles Times is the last word.

From Culiacan, he writes: "My idea of hospitality carried to the guests all the bedroom and sleeps on a cot in the bar-room. That's how it was at Guanajuato, where our scout party mapping the Alaska-Arizona highway stayed last night."

Governor Gaxiola of Sinaloa is waiting for the tourists. He is driving around with new roads even though there are few yet to travel them. His road gangs are equipped with modern tractors, big lumbering oxen and teams of burros. There are road engineers and peons in sombreros and cotton drawers.

The road passes through towns that are three or four centuries old; girls peering through barred windows at a sun-pelted street; women carrying water up from the river with huge earthen jars on their heads; naked pot-bellied children; women sipping chicha clean on rocks at the river side; the Jefe, who comes out very solemn, with a big gun on his hip; teams of burros hitched three abreast; peons in straw sombreros standing on the tongues of their wagons, punching the oxen with long pointed poles.

"The country takes on the character of a New England autumn with endless forests of bare saplings standing stark against the cloudless sky. Now the country of the charcoal burners piling hardwood logs into piles that look like an Indian tepee—charcoal for San Francisco. A mesal factory in the midst of thousand-acre fields of benequen and maguete, the lamp hanging on fires like a department-store display of human blond scalp."

"Lunch at the old hacienda Pericos where the Retes and Piero families hold open house in the way of the old California families. It is charming with high ceilings, patios with tropical trees and wild birds, kitchen where a dozen women, part tortillas and cook frijoles, a second patio walled in like a fort and a dean Spanish couple beaming upon their guests."

"We are out of the adobe now and into a country littered with peasant huts of arrow weed. Flocks of parrots scream through the trees. At last in the distance, the high blue spires of Culiacan against the sunset sky."

Politicians aren't so slick. Think what a grand time they could have with appropriations to eradicate the hint fly.

Hint to the English: Why not adopt a tariff like Uncle Sam's and get rich by charging one another too much?

THE TUMBLE WEED

Somewhere I saw a tumble weed Being blown along the busy street, With every gust it gathered speed, It rolled among the horses feet.

It had no choice to rest or go, To change its course it had no will, Or up or down or high or low The wind was master of it still.

And as it bounced along the way It left a trail of tiny seeds That would upon a later day Give to the breeze more tumble weeds.

I gave that poor, frail thing a glance And wondered as it swept along What fan would be its left to chance, Without the fair that makes him strong. (Copyright, 1930, Edgar A. Guest)

Governor Fisher May Give Support To Brown-Grundy

Speculation Rife In State Political Circles Over W. L. Mellon's Announcement

BITTER PRIMARY FIGHT EXPECTED

Arthur H. James Will Act As Campaign Manager For Davis And Brown Ticket

By FRED K. McILVAINE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, April 14.—Speculation was rife here today regarding the effect of the endorsement of Francis Shunk Brown for governor and Senator Joseph R. Grundy to succeed himself as United States senator, announced yesterday by W. L. Mellon, former state Republican committee chairman.

Governor John S. Fisher, who so far has remained silent on the primary will announce soon, the same endorsement, it is predicted, although the governor remains silent at least for the nonce.

Whether or not Governor Fisher does endorse Brown, the Mellon announcement further complicates an already far-from-simple primary campaign.

Want Ticket Support
Francis Shunk Brown has for his running mate Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for the United States senate. Previous endorsements announced for Brown without including Davis have been met by Brown without enthusiasm.

and he demanded the allegiance of this supporters for the entire ticket. The Mellon announcement assures Brown of the support of both factions of the Pennsylvania Republican state organization, while Davis has been endorsed, of course, by the so-called Philadelphia war board and the Pittsburgh-Allegheny county organization. The Pittsburgh announcement is an implication that Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, prefers Senator Grundy rather than his fellow-cabinet officer as Pennsylvania's junior senator.

Supported Grundy
Mellon's announcement revealed that he had been one of those who urged the appointment of Grundy for the senate seat left vacant by the refusal of that body to seat William S. Vare, Philadelphia leader, after his election.

Another announcement of significance which came during the week-end was that made by Vare. It is that Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James will act as campaign manager for the Brown-Davis ticket. James had filed nomination papers for the supreme court, waiting to be placed on that slate.

When the Philadelphians, other than William S. Vare, decided that Judge George W. Maxey, of Scranton, should have the place, James withdrew, with the consent and advice, apparently of Vare.

That James was conciliated and did not concede unwillingly, is evident from his acceptance of the post which he hopes will enable him to place Maxey in the supreme court along with the other candidates in their respective offices.

Three Hundred In Mine Leave When Fire Breaks Out

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 14.—Three hundred mine workers today evacuated, in orderly fashion, the Mansfield mine of the Pittsburgh Coal company when fire started in a fan house. Clean air is driven through the workings by the fan house and this air died away when the fire started and the evacuation followed. Damage to the fan house was estimated at about $1,000.

Weeks Again Heads Motor Association

President Of Keystone Auto Club Named To National Body

Four Other Pennsylvanians Chosen For Offices At Annual Meeting

WASHINGTON, April 14.—J. Barton Weeks, president of the Keystone Automobile Club and for many years prominently identified with automobile club activities in Pennsylvania, was re-elected president of the American Motorists Association this past week at the organization's annual meeting, held in New York City.

Four other Pennsylvanians also were chosen for offices and members of the board. They are: A. K. Merbreier, Philadelphia, re-elected treasurer; W. S. Canning, engineering director of the Keystone Automobile Club consultant engineer; Lewis W. McIntyre, professor, University of Pittsburgh, chairman of the National Safety Board, and Charles H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor club, elected vice president and a director. Other officers chosen included Linnaeus L. Hoopes, of the Delaware Automobile Association, secretary, and Thomas J. Keefe, re-elected general manager.

Resolutions endorsing the Federal Government's $125,000,000 Federal-aid program; Senator Tasker L. Oddie's bill for the ultimate elimination of toll bridge franchises on Federal-aid highways, and for a speeding up of the Federal and State Governments' programmes for elimination of grade crossings were unanimously adopted.

Opposition to the practices in some States of diverting gasoline tax funds to purposes other than highway construction and maintenance, was voiced in a resolution condemning such practice as a violation of the principles of gasoline taxation.

"All gasoline taxes, derived from motor vehicles, should be devoted exclusively to the purposes of highway construction and maintenance, and to no other purpose," the resolution declares.

Air Fleet Directed By Radio

Chief Of Army Corps Puts Squadrons Through Maneuvers From His Bomber Far Aloft; Tells Of Advantages Gained

Gen. FLETCHER COMMANDING by RADIO with Maj. SPATZ (left).

Capt. H.M. ELMENDORF.

SPEED FIGHTERS FLYING at Gen. FLETCHER'S COMMAND.

By Central Press
SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 14.—For the first time in the history of aeronautics, a commanding general has taken wing and directed his flying command by radio while flying high in the skies.

Recently Brig. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, while testing a radio development of Rockwell Field officers here, went up in a bomber and, with Maj. Carl S. Spatz of Question Mark fame at his side, put the speedy fighters through various maneuvers.

At times, General Fechet was 10 miles away from the maneuvering squadron; yet his every command reached the ears of squadron leaders and immediately was transformed into action.

The process of radio direction of a fighting squadron, now that radio has been perfected to its present efficiency is simple. General Fechet tuned in on the frequency of the receiving sets in the fighters, spoke into a mouthpiece and gave his orders.

"The value of this," he says, "may be noted in the accurate control of units while in flight; by the unit and higher commanders in flight; in the control of formations from the ground and in receipt and transmission of weather and other information while in flight."

While Over Ocean
General Fechet performed his experiment while flying over the Pacific near San Diego. In other tests recently, the same squadron—the famous 95th pursuit, whose pilots recently have been maneuvering at an altitude of 30,000 feet, higher by three miles than army fighters flew during 1918—has demonstrated the remarkable efficacy of radio for direction of aerial fighters.

In air-to-ground communication tests, Lt. W. C. Morse, radio officer for the squadron, has been able to carry on communication up to 65 miles in daytime. This short distance was due, he says, to the low power ground station used. However, an airplane reporting in one a pre-arranged schedule has been heard 150 miles.

While the sets in the little pursuit ships were designed for five-mile communication with other planes, they are giving good results up to 10-miles. Thus, should planes of a formation become lost from each other, they can find each other by radio.

During the last few weeks, the squadron has been able to perform several tasks which would have been impossible in the pre-radio era. One unit, en route to San Francisco, avoided a storm area when warned by radio; another pilot leader was forced down at Oceanside, and obtained help by rigging a temporary antenna to a fence and radioing to headquarters.

Until now, the squadron under command of Capt. H. M. Elmendorf has performed higher than any other air squadron. Various flights, of from three to 18 planes, take off and fly in formation to the "ceiling." In a half-hour, they climb from sea level to nearly six miles.

Superchargers
These planes, powered with the standard navy and army 450-horsepower engines, are equipped with superchargers. These are tiny "blowers," which forced air into the engines under pressure. It means the engines have sea level pressure conditions three miles in the air.

The 95th is "the squadron with which Quentin Roosevelt served during the war. In those days, the planes could hardly climb 15,000 feet. Now they double that height, and respond to their unseen commander who voices his commands from some vantage point high in the air or on the ground.

Officers Investigating Death Of West Virginia Man Say It Is Accidental

(International News Service)
WELLSBURG, W. Va., April 14.—Accidental death was the verdict rendered today by Coroner J. B. Walkinshaw who investigated circumstances surrounding the finding of the body of R. I. Rigner, 40 in his office here.

Rigner, chief clerk for the West Virginia and Pittsburgh Coal company in this city, was found in the company office yesterday. He had been shot through the head and a discharged riot gun lay at his side. It is believed Rigner stumbled over the gun and was killed instantly when the hammer of the gun discharged the cartridge.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

$33,280,629 Gained From Gasoline Tax

900,495,620 Gallons Of Petrol Used In State During 1929

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 14.—A total of 900,495,620 gallons of gasoline was used by motor vehicles in Pennsylvania last year, producing a tax revenue to the State of $33,280,629, according to figures compiled by William S. Canning, engineering director of the Keystone Automobile Club. Combined with $29,160,690 from registrations and operators' licenses, the total received from Pennsylvania motorists was $62,441,319.08.

"The average cost per vehicle for registration and gasoline levy," said Mr. Canning, "was $35.19, of which $18.77 was the tax paid on an average of 507 gallons of gas per vehicle. It is interesting to compare this with the figures for New Jersey, where the total for registration and gasoline tax was $29.82, of which $12.04 was paid on an average of 602 gallons of gasoline per vehicle."

$16.42 Is Average
"Average registration fee per vehicle in this State was $16.42, compared with $17.78 in New Jersey which received $14,803,015.62 from that source in 1929. Pennsylvania's total registration for the year was 1,774,923 motor vehicles, compared with New Jersey's total of 831,514 vehicles.

"In the first six months of the year, when the Pennsylvania gas tax was 3 cents per gallon, the gas receipts were $8,217,587.16 on a consumption of 273,919,572 gallons. Indication of the tremendous increase in travel during the summer and fall is given in the record of gas consumption in the last six months of 1929. A total of 626,576,048 gallons was used, producing at the tax rate of four cents a gallon a revenue of $25,063,041.92.

"New Jersey, with a total consumption of 499,800,706 gallons, collected $9,996,014.13 on the basis of a two-cent tax."

School To Get Famous Flag

(International News Service)
CHARLEROI, Pa., April 14.—Tattered and torn, a famed old Civil War flag which was carried by Company D, 79th Pennsylvania Infantry, of Lancaster, Pa., is soon to pass into the possession of the Charleroi High School.

That is the proposition of "Daddy" Wise, who fought with that company under the old flag. It was turned over to "Daddy" when Comrade Lafayette Culbertson died. Comrade Culbertson was the color bearer of Company D, and he had taken proud care of the silken stars and stripes he carried in many battles.

Now "Daddy" Wise is getting older and the Civil War recedes into the past so far as time is concerned and he feels that he will not be able to guard the standard much longer. Therefore he will turn over the flag to the people of Charleroi, for the high school, if they will provide a suitable case for it. "Daddy" wants to be sure that the memorable silken folds shall be kept free from the ravages of the atmosphere, even though it, too, be subject to the ravages of time.

CAUGHT!
The soldiers marched to the church and held in the square outside. One wing of the edifice was undergoing repairs, so there was room for only about half the company.

"Sergeant," ordered the captain, "tell the men who don't want to go to church to fall out."

A large number quickly availed themselves of the privilege.

"Now, sergeant," said the captain, "dismiss all the men who did not fall out and march the others in—they need it most."

The cabinet crisis in Ireland that was not crisis at all came suspiciously close to April 1.—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WOMEN WANT GOVERNMENT TO FIGHT OBESITY

By RUTH JANE WILLIAMS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

VIENNA, April 14.—Should the government give free reducing advice to the fat hausfraus of Vienna?

That is an important affair of state now confronting Austria.

For the ladies of Vienna want to get thin. And they expect to do it at the expense of the government.

A diet service has just been opened here in connection with the new clinic directed by the world famous indigestion specialist, Professor Dr. Carl Noorden.

Diet, to the merry wives of Wien, means reducing. And these possessors of avoirdupois have been standing in line at the new clinic, asking for dietary charts for losing weight.

This state of affairs is regarded as dangerously frivolous by the authorities. For one thing, they believe that the women of this country are attractively and traditionally plump and should remain so. And for another, the clinic is intended for the treatment of indigestion and not obesity.

The ladies are insisting on their rights to the clinic's assistance in resisting unfashionable large dimensions.

Army Air Corps To Stage Monster Flying Circus

(International News Service)
DENVER, April 14.—Crack flyers of the army air corps on April 23 will stage the greatest exhibition of military flying ever put on the region between Wright Field, Ohio, and air corps fields in California.

The First Pursuit Group of Selfridge Field, Michigan, under command of Major Ralph Royce, will stage an hour and a half demonstration of tactical maneuvers over Lowry Field, Denver, under the sponsorship of F. G. Bonfils, owner of The Denver Post, and foremost backer of aviation in the entire Rocky Mountain region.

James W. Irwin, assistant to Mr. Bonfils and an editor with almost 1,000 hours in the air as a passenger in army, navy, marine and commercial planes, has just completed arrangements with the war department for the gigantic display of war maneuvers as a means of showing the residents of the west what progress the corps is accomplishing.

The First Pursuit Group is known around the world as the famous "Arctic patrol," the unit which made the sensational flight from Michigan to Spokane, Wash., and return in temperatures ranging to fifty-five degrees below zero. It is considered the finest fighting unit in any of the armies of the world and is noted for its efficiency the year round, regardless of storms, cold or heat.

The reviewing officer of the Denver maneuvers will be Brig. Gen. C. R. Howland, commanding officer of the Fourth Brigade, Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyoming. His staff will accompany him to Denver the day before the maneuvers.

Also observing the demonstration will be Lieut. Col. W. W. Browning, official war department observer with the air corps; Col. O. R. Pettis, commanding, Fort Logan, Colo.; Col. George W. Stuart, chief of staff, and Lieut. Col. W. W. Edwards, assistant chief of staff, 103rd Division, major Lewis Brererton, commanding Post Field, Oklahoma.

The 120th Observation Squadron, stationed at Lowry Field, Denver, under command of Major Bruce Kistler, will take part in the maneuvers with eight planes in the air. The forty fast fighters of Major Royce's command will demonstrate before the 100,000 spectators expected to witness the event, how quickly the two-hundred mile an hour pursuit ships can put an observation unit out of business.

The West never before has witnessed a demonstration by such a large fighting unit and residents of several states are expected to make the journey to observe the pursuit-ers in action.

Barnstorming Pro Golfers Returning To Summer Posts

By NAN O'REILLY
International News Service Sports
Writer

NEW YORK, April 14.—After a long, hard, winter, spent in battling Colonel Par, the golfing birds have returned to their summer homes.

Last week marked the northward trek of the nation's fairway troubadours, for the southeastern open at Augusta was the last stand of the boys of the winter nubbick battalion.

And today the "old-timers," those known as the "regulars," are convinced that it isn't worth while. In the prize winning list for 1930, where are the Arnoums, and the Hagens, the Cruickshanks and the Diegels, the Farrells and the Goldens?

This trek to the coast that doubles back through Texas and on to Florida and Pinehurst, is one that calls for heart and plenty of it, if one's expenses are to be paid.

As matters stand now, there are a number of famous golfers who are in the "red" after their winter's labors, and it may be a year hence they will agree with Long Jim Barnes that there's nothing to this business of traveling thousands of miles with no guarantee.

Barnes, incidentally spent a profitable winter at an indoor club, and is no longer the lean, cadaverous gent of the old days.

Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen and Bill Mehlhorn are the only three of the champions who made a go of the winter trail, but there are a half a dozen newcomers who blazed their names across the sport pages of the country's newspapers. Smith won something like $15,500—and has every penny of it. He scored six firsts and four seconds out of his nineteen starts.

The Joplin Kind took the Pasadena, Oregon Berkeley, Savannah, Central Florida and Honolulu opens, and was second at Agua Caliente, Los Angeles and at Augusta.

Gene Sarazen won the biggest pot of the year, $10,000 at Agua Caliente, and $3,500 at Belleair.

Denny Shute lived up to his promise at Winnet Poot, and won the Los Angeles and Texas titles, as well as $10,000 in money, with Al Espinosa not far behind. Al took his on "seconds." Bill Mehlhorn won $5,000 at La Gorce, and the blond Craig Wood paid his expenses from Hawaii and Oklahoma City.

But how about the others, the golfers who are considered among the country's leaders? Hagen didn't collect cigarette money—actually his booty was only $80—but he's making up for it in Australia. Johnny Farrell couldn't pay his expenses from his barnstorming tour, and Tommy Armour didn't do much better.

FAMOUS OLD SHERMAN ROSE IS NEAR DEATH

(International News Service)

MONTEREY, Cal., April 14.—The old "Sherman Rose," which for nearly a century has bloomed here in Monterey, may bloom no more.

The girl and boy whose hands planted the rose bush have been dead many years, and when the bush, which now rambles up the sides of the old Ferey Gray house, dies too, there will pass with it one of the favorite tales of old Monterey.

The Rose, as the story is told here among Spanish families, was given to Senorita Maria Ygnacia Bonifacio in 1847 by General William Tecumseh Sherman, then a lieutenant of cavalry on the eve of his departure for the East.

According to the legend, Senorita Bonifacio reciprocated the affections of the blue-eyed young American. Calling to make his final adieu, Sherman presented the rose to the Senorita, and together they planted it beneath her window. There were vows of fidelity and a promise of the soldier that when it bloomed he would return to Monterey to claim his bride.

The rose grew and blossomed. Years passed, but General Sherman did not return. Instead he was marching through Georgia from Atlanta to the sea.

And the beautiful Maria remained unmarried until her death in 1916. Those who have watched the rose blossom year after year protest that its petals have lost much of their once sweet fragrance; that the ramble which climbed above the Senorita's window, is dying.

This season it may bloom; possibly next season also; but the older people will tell you that each year its blossoms become fewer; that the sap is leaving the vines.

Money Loan Made By President Buchanan In 1840 Never Paid

BUTLER, Pa., April 14.—That James Buchanan, who was inaugurated president of the United States in 1857 and was succeeded by the immortal Lincoln, transacted business in the Butler county courthouse November 20, 1840, has been discovered by former Judge James M. Galbreath. The mortgage was given as security for a loan made November 20, 1840.

The former president, it appears, loaned "Hon. William Beatty" of Butler township, $2,000 and took a mortgage on a 214-acre tract of land in Butler township, for guarantee of the payment of the loan made July 10, 1840, within three years.

Buchanan gave his address as "the city of Lancaster," and as the mortgage was never satisfied, according to the record, to all appearances the loan was never paid. The mortgage was witnessed by John Bredin and Maurice Bredin.

8,000 MILE HOP AVIATORS' GOAL

An 8,000 mile non-stop flight from New Haven, Conn., to Buenos Aires is the ambitious plan of Lieutenant Commander George R. Pond and Captain Herbert C. Partridge, former military flyers, who have been grooming their monoplane at New Haven for the take-off. At least four refueling contacts will be made en route.

State Meet To Be Held At Altoona

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 14.—Altoona will be the sight of the 1930 high school state track championship of Pennsylvania on May 24, it was announced today by Secretary Edmund B. Wicht of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association. The event last year was held on the Bucknell University track at Lewisburg. The William Penn High school track of this city was considered as a possible site for the championship classic for this year.

Due to the completion of the new high school field at Altoona and the desire to hold the schoolboy affair in the Western half of the state resulted in to today's decision.

300 Chicks Are Fatally Burned

CORRY, Pa., April 14.—Fire, which broke out in a brooder in the attic of the home of Frank Renzi, 564 East Pleasant street, resulted in the loss of over three-hundred week-old chicks.

The brooder became over-heated and was a mass of flames before members of the family discovered the fire. Upwards of five hundred of the little chicks were safely removed from the brooder, but approximately half as many were lost.

The fire quite badly damaged the upper part of the structure before it was brought under control by firemen. The loss is estimated at from $300 to $400, covered by insurance.

What kind of people do employers like to have around them? Certainly not people with halitosis (unpleasant breath). You can't blame a man for firing an employee with halitosis to hire one without it—especially when such employees must deal with the public.

American Women Are Not So Good

DETROIT, Mich., April 14—American women are shrews, nervous wrecks and are fat. They use the can opener too often, and exercise too little. They eat too much. They are responsible for this country being the land of the alimony. Such was the characterization given American women by Madame Pearl Violette Metzelin, world traveler, in a recent address here. "Most women here drive cars, plow bridge, go to teas, get fat, and then sue for alimony," she said and added, "the men are just as bad—they let the women get away with it."

'Votes For Women' Marchers Recalled

It Is 17 Years Since The Fair Crusaders Tramped To The White House

Leaders In Parade Of Spectacular Femininity Busy In Other Roles Now

Where are the women who led the marching hosts to victory after a long and strenuous campaign for Women Suffrage?

It is only 17 years since the tramp, tramp, tramp, of the many feet of women were heard up the long way of Pennsylvania avenue in the most spectacular parade of its history on the day before the inauguration of President Woodrow Wilson, comments the Washington correspondent of The Boston Globe.

Inez Milholland, the marshal of that parade, has been accounted for, as she has joined the marching hosts of eternity. But where are those others? Where is Alice Paul, the militant Quaker maiden leader of the Congressional Union, who inspired many demonstrations for the rights of women? And where is Capt. Rosalie Jones, who led the valiant band of hikers from New York city to the White House? Where is Ruth Hanna McCormick, who marched along defiant of the protests of the Washington society women who knew her only as a belle and as the wife of that rising young statesman from Illinois, Medill McCormick.

Living Their Own Lives
And where did Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, fervent of leaders, the two Hill girls, Elsie and Helena, daughters of the standpatter of standpatters, Representative E. B. Hill of Connecticut, in after years not afraid they to stand in front of the White House as leaders of the militant pickets and to serve time in Occuquan and hunger strike for their convictions?

They have marched across the picture of a great national campaign, written their names with firm hands on the scroll of its book of accomplishments and then disappeared into the realm of living their own lives as they please—"far from the madding crowd."

Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, candidate for Senator from Illinois, is accounted for from her seat in the House of Representatives, but few of the other women, who were so outstanding as suffrage leaders are among those who answer "here" at present-day campaigns of women for this cause or another.

One of the most gracious, best-dressed and popular hostesses in the official set is Mrs. Clarence C. Dill, wife of the Senator from Washington State. Few at her table guess that she first saw the Nation's capital from the roads outside its limits, when as Capt. Rosalie Jones, tired, dusty and foot sore, she halted her valiant band of suffrage hikers en route to petition Congress for "votes for women."

Mrs. Dill, no doubt, is an ardent suffragist still, but her abiding interest centers around her home and the entertainments she and her husband give for their friends.

Militant Quaker Student of Law
Alice Paul, the militant Quaker maiden from New Jersey, who drew out of the National Woman Suffrage Association with her hundreds of followers to work for suffrage along the lines outlined by Susan B. Anthony and established the National Woman's Party, is among those not present at the conferences and campaign meetings of this still energetic and progressive group of women.

When the peals of suffrage victory died away this demure and dynamic leader pointed out that the granting of the rights to vote meant only part of the freedom of women and that their work was not done until women had equal rights with men by law in every home and business relation. She spurred her tired followers on to action and sprang to the front of the column of marchers as always. The new group was formed and then Alice Paul disappeared, to be found later a daily student in a law school from which she took a degree in record time.

Nowadays frequenters of the Library of Congress will find there in an alcove off the main reading room a small earnest looking woman, her dark hair brushed back from her brow, poring over great piles of books from early morning until late in the afternoon and often in the evening. She has not time to attend meetings any more and slips in and out of her studio rooms near the Library or in a quaint tea room where she takes her meals. It is Alice Paul in a new role, that of student of nationality laws affecting women the world over.

Absorbed in Her Grandchildren
Red-haired Lucy Burns, who traveled the road to prison with Alice Paul in England and America for the sake of their principles, is also not to be seen when the suffragists of the capital now gather together. Miss Burns is too busy in Brooklyn bringing up a young niece there and in home-making.

Miss Elsie Hill, at one time national chairman of the National Woman's Party, a White House picket who wears her prison pin proudly, has retired to a small Connecticut farm where she is at work keeping house for her husband and bringing up her small daughter. That she hears some echoes of her busy past still is shown in the fact that she still keeps her office on the board of the party, comes to Washington for its conventions and insists on showing her independence by retaining her own maiden name of Elsie Hill rather than assuming that of her husband.

Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, dean of present-day hosts of suffrage pioneers has turned her attention to writing, although she may be found at the front of any delegation or committee asking recognition for women.

Mrs. William Kent, widow of the late Representative from California, has retired to her ranch in California and is interested in writing, although she does come occasionally to Washington for suffrage events.

Helena Hill Weed, whose forceful personality won many votes, now is a world traveler and lecturer, and finds her chief and absorbing interest in her grandchildren.

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the late President, is devoting much of her time to promoting music and the appreciation of music in the United States.

Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, head of the suffrage movement in New Jersey, now is chief of the Washington Bureau of Policewomen in the capital and spends much of her time in social welfare work.

Labor Cabinet's End Predicted In Britain

Defeats On Minor Points Likely To Hasten General Election

LONDON, April 14—Defeats in the House of Commons of the Labor government on minor points have, in the opinion of astute observers, hastened the possibility of a general election.

It is well known that none of the parties wants an election forced too soon because of the disturbing effect it would have on the naval conference and the budget. But Ramsey MacDonald is not of the temperament to accept many rebuffs which damage the prestige of his minority government.

The opposition is fully aware of this and does not intend to be caught napping. The agents of the Conservative Party throughout the country have already been warned by their leaders to hold themselves in readiness for a possible general election in May. On May 30 it will be just one year since the last general election.

Women Preparing for Vote
The Labor Women's Organization is preparing for a possible general election in June. It is creating a special organization for the dissemination of political propaganda among women and is mobilizing all its resources so that a sudden call to the hustings will not catch the labor women with their powder wet.

The defeat of the Government by eight votes on March 11 was an important but not essential price-fixing proposal in the coal mines bill, but some of the ministers have made it quite clear that they looked upon the adverse vote as the beginning of the end of the present Labor Government.

One Cabinet member predicted the Government would not continue in office beyond May. Another Minister, however, expressed the opinion that there was far too much work on hand to permit a dissolution of Parliament as quickly as that.

Political observers think the situation has reached this point: Ramsey MacDonald can no longer depend upon Liberal support to enable his minority government to outvote the Conservatives. The hostility of the Maxton group of "red" sharpshooters within the Labor Party ranks has increased, thus adding to the embarrassments of the minority government with its far-reaching programme of social legislation. The Government is in a crossfire between the opposition and its own disaffected followers.

Fear Holiday Election
One of the fears of the Conservatives is that MacDonald will choose to take his policies to the polls in the midst of the summer holiday season, when great numbers of Conservative electors would not make the sacrifice of their holidays to return home and vote.

Nobody can foretell just what issue the MacDonald men will accept for the campaign. They might go to the country over the Coal Mines Bill, but many persons think it more likely that MacDonald will choose to make an issue of the Amending Bill to the Trades Disputes act, which everyone expects will be opposed by the full strength of both Conservative and Liberal Parties or enough to throw the Laborites out of office. Trade-unionists would rally to the support of the Government in such an issue.

Pension Increase To Be Provided

Bill In Congress Would Increase Mrs. Maginnis' Pension

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Apr. 14—Representative J. Howard Swick has introduced two more bills to grant increases of pensions to two Civil War widows in his district, one of the two a New Castle woman.

Eliza R. Maginnis of 722 Chestnut street, New Castle, would be given a pension increase from forty to fifty dollars per month, and Tillie E. Shryock, of North Washington, Butler county, from thirty to fifty dollars per month.

Mrs. Maginnis is the widow of Luther Maginnis, who served with Company 1, 140th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, in the Civil War and Mrs. Shryock is the widow of Samuel P. Shryock, of Company C, Eleventh Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry.

Both bills have been referred to the House committee on Invalid Pensions.

New Mooring Mast Built At Montreal

Giant Structure Awaits Arrival Of British Dirigible In May

Passengers From Airships Will Disembark At Tower And Descend In Elevators

MONTREAL, April 14.—The huge new mooring mast at St. Hubert, specially built for the arrival of the R-100, the giant British dirigible which will make its maiden voyage to Canada next month, has been the centre of attraction to Montrealers who have motored out to the airport.

The structure is a replica of the mast built at Cardington, England, and rises to a height of 200 feet. The mast at St. Hubert can be seen for miles. Its metal-capped nose plainly marks the location of the airport.

Elevators To Carry Passengers. This mast has been especially designed for the work it is to perform and has been constructed in such a manner that the passengers will disembark from the nose of the R-100 over a covered gangway, and into the lip of the tower, where they will be lowered to the ground by elevators.

The manner in which the airship is made fast to the tower is novel. A long cable is laid out both from the tower and the airship, when it arrives in the vicinity of the mast. These two loose ends are firmly connected together, and powerful winches will then draw in the cable, thereby fastening the airship's nose to the top of the mooring mast where it can float freely in the wind.

The nose of the airship has been built stronger than any other type of lighter than air craft, and a factor of safety has been provided to enable the vessel to encounter a vertical gust of wind of 4000 feet a minute, when encountered at the full speed of the vessel.

Added Safety Factor. The factor of safety of the R-100 is several times as great as that of older types of airships when calculated under similar conditions.

She is the first really commercial vessel that has been designed, her useful load being 73 tons. From this must be subtracted 21 tons for crew, ballast and loss of lift to 2000 feet, leaving 52 tons for fuel, passengers and freight. The consumption of fuel at 75 miles an hour is half a ton an hour, thus giving a total endurance of 52 hours at 75 miles an hour in the air, or 3,910 miles.

Total Personnel of 45 Men. The personnel of the R-100 when she crosses the Atlantic to Montreal next month will consist of 45 men, the crew and technicians, according to reports received here. There will be no press correspondents aboard, as was the case on the Graf Zeppelin.

Hourly reports will be sent out, however, by the captain of the ship.

To accommodate all the press representatives seeking to make the trip would, it is said, have taken up all the room. Nevertheless, it appears that representations were made for a few of them being taken aboard, representing recognized press and cable services, but the British authorities have refused.

If the indicated schedule is carried out, the R-100 will tie up at the St. Hubert mooring mast in the cold gray dawn of a mid-May morning.

Temple To Have May Day Pageant

Stock Will Be Closed Out And Firm Will Go Out Of Business In Near Future

Announcement was made today by C. Ed. Smith Jr. of the retirement of the C. Ed. Smith Hardware Company from active business here, because of the press of other business affairs.

The C. Ed. Smith Hardware Company was founded by C. Ed. Smith, Sr., 34 years ago, and has been one of the old established business firms of the city for a number of years. When C. Ed. Smith, Sr. died several years ago, his son, took over the reins of business.

The C. Ed. Smith Hardware Co. occupies a four story building at 314-316 East Washington Street, and are in the same location where the business began from a humble beginning 34 years ago.

Preparations are now being made to close out the stock of the store at public sale.

TELLS HOW NEW MEDICINE ENDED HUSBAND'S ILLS

Unable To Work For 20 Weeks; Ten Herbs Alone Restored Health.

The promptness with which it works is one of the many pleasing features of the widely discussed and highly successful new medicine, Ten Herbs. Often the first few doses enable its ten wonderful natural ingredients to bring blessed relief, and when the use of this famous preparation is continued for awhile, stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, are relieved, and new feelings of health and strength come over the body in general.

"My husband had been troubled so terribly with his stomach that for 20 weeks he was unable to work and although he tried about every kind of medicine he heard of, nothing helped him, excepting Ten Herbs, which promptly relieves his ills," said Mrs. Elizabeth Heil, 200 Chestnut Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, Pa. "He was confined to bed for some time and lost 15 pounds in weight, but after taking your medicine he looked like a new man, and was able to work again."

"Nearly everything he ate upset his stomach, which seemed to fill with gas and acid. Food would sour, and a hot, sour liquid would come up in his throat and choke him. Constipation troubled him so badly that he would go for days without relief."

"Ten Herbs proved to be just what he needed, and he improved rapidly. His appetite was restored, and he could eat almost anything he wanted without suffering afterwards. His stomach no longer seemed to fill with gas and excessive acid, and he gained in weight and strength. We take pleasure in recommending Ten Herbs to the public."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, and is sold by all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

Holland, of near Uniontown, died last night in the Uniontown hospital. His face and head were badly crushed. Just how the accident happened no one has been able to ascertain. Motorists found the machine overturned just off the side of the highway. They lifted it and hurried the victim to the hospital. Springer had successfully passed the motor driver's test on Thursday and, on the same day, had taken out $1,000 insurance through the Uniontown Motor Club.

The membership campaign which has been in progress for the past several weeks, will be wound up at the meeting Wednesday evening, and all members who have candidates for the obligation are requested by Commander James A. Bell to bring them to this meeting.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., April 14.—Despondent over ill health, Steve Eyged, 60, of 918 Ninth avenue, employed as enameler at the Ingram Richardson Manufacturing Company for 20 years, hanged himself to a tree within sight of the plant. Two boys discovered the body.

Police learned Eyged had been under a physician's care for three weeks and was despondent. He had tied two ropes around his neck, attached them to a limb of the tree and then had leaped down an embankment. He leaves his widow and four children.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

High Ideals Maintained By Parents

Yesterday I began to report back the many answers of my readers. To the question "At what age would you first allow a girl to go out at night with a boy friend without a chaperon?" the answers ranged from 13 years to 19 years with most naming 16 years. Several said they would not interfere.

One wrote: "When she cares to do so." Some said that much depended upon the girl or boy and attending circumstances.

Most of those who answered seemed to have pretty high standards for their girls.

The kind of parent who reads these columns is likely to have pretty lofty standards. Certainly they are far above the prevailing practices. As a rule the chaperon seems to be a passing factor in the guidance and protection of the modern youth. Why are we so cowardly as to believe we can't protect our children? Doubtless all of us could hold our children up to higher standards if we had more courage and more skill in maintaining their respect and confidence.

It is relatively easy to keep the baby from eating pickles until he has his first pickle, provided there is no doubt about it. So also it is not very difficult to lead the young adolescent girl to expect reasonable protection, if it is clear to her what is expected. Groups of mothers whose children go together, church groups and P. T. A. groups, could do a great deal to maintain chaperoning as conventional if they were to set about to work to gether on maintaining standards. It takes no character or skill to relax and compromise; but to stand against the current of disintegrating ideals and practice calls for the best moral and mental stuff to be found in any of us.

We must remember that just to have ideals and to define objectives are of no avail unless we have the wisdom and dexterity of attaining such ideals and arriving at such objectives. No matter what we may expect or demand of our children, unless we are able to cause them to comply without undue resistance and unreasonable unhappiness, we put only loss in our immediate purposes but we lose our children. We may even cause them to despise the things we love, even to hate us.

Do you believe a child of teen age (adolescent) should be expected to come home from a party at an hour set by you? If so, at what hour? Of the hundred-odd replies, "Yes" was answered six times as often as "No." Of those who would set a definite time, 12 or "before 12" was named by eleven; 7:30 by three; 11 by ten; 10:30 by three and 10 by eight.

Some who said "no" added, "Child should go only to parties which break up at a reasonable hour." One writes "The hour is not so important as what they do while at the party and how they come home." "It is important that they take no extra rides or have after-parties," said another. "Should do as the crowd do; if crowd is undesirable, change the crowd," observes the third. Writes a fourth, "Anything that makes a young person different from this crowd is resented (quite rightly) by that crowd, and is extremely embarrassing and I believe distinctly harmful for the young person involved."

When parents work together each, when a hostess, can see that the party is disbanded at a wholesome hour. Some wise parents, when a party of young adolescents is at their house, announce at an early hour, "My car is now ready."

We may be able to stick by standards and still win reasonable cooperation.

Tomorrow: Waiting For Children to Come Home.

Smallpox Scare Closes Revival

No More Public Meetings At Franklin Pending Outcome

FRANKLIN, Pa., April 14.—A peremptory order, closing churches and motion picture shows in Franklin until Friday, was issued at noon Sunday by Dr. S. J. Dickey, state department of health, Harrisburg, following disclosure that a small pox patient living on the Venango-Clarion border had visited Franklin in the last two weeks.

The patient, Rev. Mr. Carmichael, minister of churches at Kossuth, Ninevah and several neighboring points, was taken ill April 3. Health officials believe he contracted the disease in Akron, O. Between that time and when he took to bed he visited one of the two evangelistic services in progress at Franklin. One was at the Gospel Tabernacle of Rev. Mr. Lehman, the other service is that conducted by Rev. Dr. W. E. Biederwolf and sponsored by Franklin's churches.

The ban on "all public meetings" came scarcely an hour and a half before a mammoth parade of all Sunday schools to the Biederwolf meeting was planned. Announcement caused consternation, in view of the fact that the patient's home is at Ninevah, Clarion county, at least 25 miles from here.

Dr. Charles H. Brown, city health officer, visited the quarantined area early Sunday, saw more than a hundred Clarion county residents being vaccinated and returned with the signed order of Dr. Dickey, which put the quietus on all indoor gatherings and annulled entirely the fourth and most intensive week of the Biederwolf campaign.

By GROVE PATTERSON

By GROVER ATTERTON

"It," which seems to have become the short and sweet word for a certain kind of personality to be found in a few women, is becoming more important as a definition. "It" is now used to define the personality of men as well as women. Brandenburg, Purdue professor, investigating the record of students five years out of college, finds those who have attractive personalities, who have what movie fans call "get along better," in the way of good jobs and salaries than those distinguished for sheer learning. It's not a strange discovery—in young men a short time out of school. Later years may tell a different story. Even "it" is no substitute for ability and hard work, in the long run.

THIRTY YEARS
If you are old enough to remember the world 30 years ago, and if you have been awake and looking about, you are among the luckiest of folks who have ever lived on this small, obscure, and comparatively unimportant planet. For the years between 1900 and 1930 have given you more adventures and more thrill than have ever been produced in a similar period. Our voices still ring, we are heard across the sea; wingless, we fly; more or less bored, we listen to the wise-cracks of the great and the not-quite-great a thousand miles away.

Like it or not, it's been a smashing 30 years. More has happened in this bit of life which we have had a chance to live than happened to folks all the way from the Roman Empire to the American Revolution.

SO-CALLED CRIME WAVES
Perhaps we're hysterical folks. We are easily excited. Probably most of us have accepted the idea that there is a "crime wave" in this country. We read much about crime in the newspapers, although the amount of crime news is small in proportion to the total volume of news. Inasmuch as crime is exceptional and more interesting to read about than normal behavior, we give more time to it. It is not strange we hastily conclude there is more crime news than any other sort. It's merely a common and easily understood delusion. The thing we are interested in we see LARGE; the thing we are less interested in we see SMALL.

Combs August Vollmer, criminologist of the University of Chicago, and tells that according to all available statistics the criminal population is proportionately the same as it has been for 50 years, and the proportion of crime is about the same. Vollmer used to be a police chief before he became a university professor.

In other words, the amount of crime is in exact ratio to the increase in the population. "Crime wave" is just a bit of hysteria put in words.

CAUSE OF CRIME
Somebody asks the writer: What are the principal causes of crime in the United States? Let us write four reasons: the over-valuation of money on the part of the average human; the delay in the courts and the unlikelihood that the criminal will be quickly punished to a situation quite different from that in England or Canada; poverty, brought on by over-production and faulty distribution, and finally, the failure of the attempted enforcement of prohibition.

Clair Cameron of R. F. D. No. 8, although a deaf mute, has attracted considerable attention in the industrial world by his inventive genius. Mr. Cameron has perfected a waterless cleaner, which removes dirt without the use of water and with no rubbing or mudding. In addition to cleaning, it kills odors and disinfects at the same time. It is useful in cleaning all kinds of materials, removing dirt from painted walls, woodwork or rugs and is a great time and labor saver.

Mr. Cameron guarantees that it will

Mellon Support For Grundy Was Not Unexpected

President Hoover Embarrassed
By Peculiar Political Situation In Penn-

CABINET MEMBERS ON OPPOSITE SIDES

Secretary Davis May Relieve Odd Case By Resigning
His Cabinet Position

By GEORGE E. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Formal announcement in Pittsburgh that the Mellon interests are going to support Senator Joseph R. Grundy against Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in Pennsylvania's hectic senatorship fight was read with keen interest today by Capitol politicians.

The Mellon's support of Grundy has been expected for some time. But the public announcement of it has been delayed while the Republican leaders in Pennsylvania sought some compromise that would prevent such a party civil war as the Keystone primary threatens to be.

Peculiar Situation
Incidentally, the announcement served again to direct attention to the peculiar situation in which President Hoover finds himself. His cabinet contains two men who are short-lived to engage in an epic battle in Pennsylvania—Secretary Davis, a senatorial candidate, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, whose influence and power are thrown directly against Davis' aspirations.

When this battle began to loom up friends of Mr. Hoover said he was "considerably embarrassed" by the situation. It was intimated by administration officials that Secretary Davis might relieve that embarrassment by resigning his cabinet post.

To these hints, Secretary Davis blandly replied that he had a distinguished precedent for remaining in his cabinet berth while seeking an elective office, to wit: The President himself. Mr. Hoover conducted his primary campaign for the Presidential nomination from the vantage of the Secretaryship of Commerce in the Coolidge administration.

Secretary Davis made it clear he had no intention of resigning, unless of course, directly asked to do so by the President. Mr. Hoover was not prepared to go that far, and so the talk of Davis resigning faded out.

Betting Favors Davis
And tomorrow, when the cabinet meets, Secretary Mellon and Secretary Davis will face each other across the table with their minds probably occupied with what they plan to do to each other during the next month in Pennsylvania. The primary is on May 20.

The betting in Washington inclines to favor Davis winning, notwithstanding Grundy's long service in the state, and the organization of business interests that he has built up through the years.

Davis has the support of the Vore organization, and the Republican National Committee. Congressman W. W. Atterbury, who is also President of the Pennsylvania railroad.

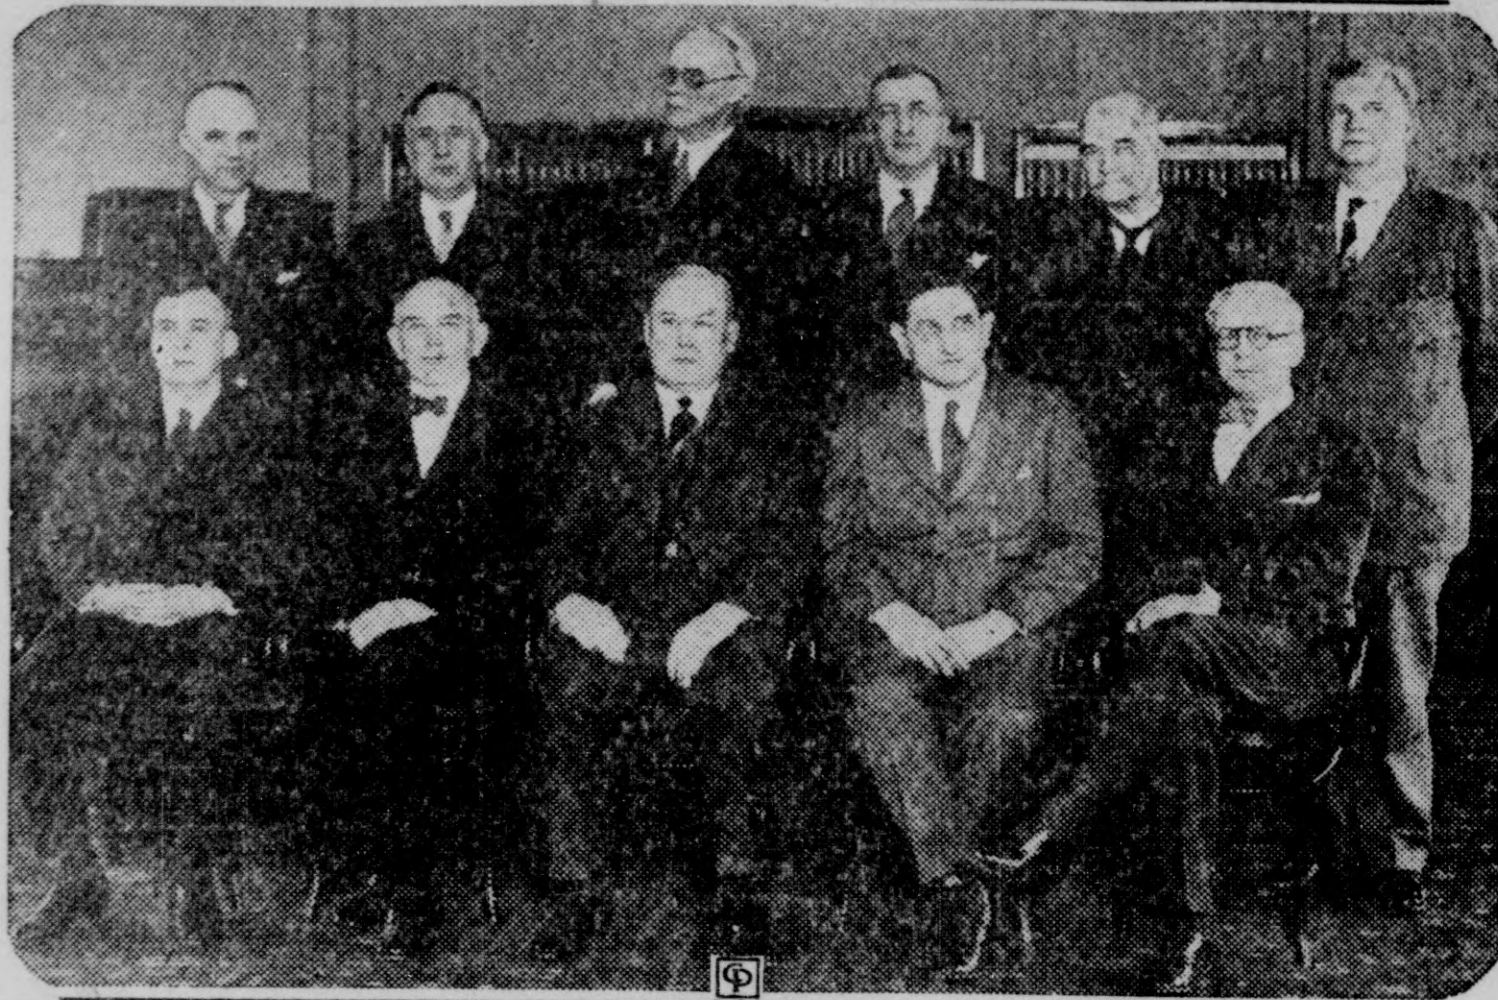

The senatorship fight is between Davis and Grundy, with powerful financial interests arrayed on each side.

The governorship fight has become three-cornered, with Francis Shunk Brown receiving the support of both the Mellon and Vore organizations; Ex-Gov. Gifford Pinchot running as an independent, and Ex-Congressman Thomas W. Phillips running as a wet.

In such a situation, the Democrats are sitting by and hoping that the Republican factions will tear each other into such shreds that they may slip in next November.

Possibly next to Illinois, the Pennsylvania primary presents the most spectacular battle of the spring campaign.

Orders Mass For Dead Sweetheart

Dexter Dayton, Held For killing
His Sweetheart In Washington Has Strange Request

"STILL LOVES" GIRL HE KILLED

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Still in love with the girl he killed, and stricken with remorse over a crime he blames on liquor, Dexter Dayton of Kansas City, in jail awaiting trial, has ordered mass for the repose of the soul of Miss Marjorie O'Donnell, 23, whom he strangled last October.

"She is the only girl I truly loved," Dayton said today. "My heart lies buried in the grave with her."

Dayton has asked his mother to get him the best available portrait of the slain girl, so that he can gaze on her features in his cell. She will give it to him Friday.

Requests Mass.
Dayton earned in jail the money to contribute for the offering of the prayers. The first $7 he earned he sent a few days ago to the Franciscan monastery at Brookland, D. C., with the request a mass be said for his dead sweetheart.

Mrs. Dayton says the tragedy was the result of her son's second love affair. The first girl he loved, back in Kansas City, broke off their engagement because of a slight disagreement and plunged him into a nervous breakdown from which he has never fully recovered.

When Miss O'Donnell declined to marry him he became temporarily crazed and strangled her to death in a room in the Roosevelt hotel. He was dazed from drinking and claims he had no intention of killing the girl.

A note he left in the room, however, indicated he intended to shoot himself after killing his sweetheart.

Dayton notified a hotel bellboy that he had killed his sweetheart.
No date has been set for his trial.

MUCH WORK ON HIGHWAYS BEING DONE IN COUNTY

Travelling about Lawrence county one discovers that quite a large amount of work is being done on the highways of the county.

Work is in progress on the completion of the Perry Highway from the Jordan farm to the Butler road, through Harlansburg. This contract is at the grading stage. Recent order of the State Public Service Commission, also requires that a viaduct be erected at Grant City, over the Western Allegheny tracks, on this route, a contract of considerable proportions.

A little further out beyond Harlansburg, a new bridge is being built on the New Castle-Slippery Rock route, and a considerable change in the roadway is being made.

Just outside New Castle on the New Castle to Ellwood road, work is still in progress on the bridge over Big Run and the Railroad tracks. The fills are being made at the present time.

Contract is to be awarded shortly for the construction of the Ellwood City to Portersville highway, a seven-mile stretch of road. The bids were recently taken for this.

Work is in progress on the Enon Valley to Beaver County line road. This also includes a viaduct that eliminates a grade crossing on the Pennsylvania lines.

Three streets in New Castle, which are a part of the state highway system through New Castle, Grant street, Butler avenue and Croton avenue are about to be repaved.

A small bridge is being built on the Edenburg road, replacing one that was evidently washed out during a storm some time since.

On practically all of the improved highways forces of men are at work putting the edges in good shape, and patching up defective places that may have developed.

On the New Wilmington to Pulaski road there is still quite a large amount of finishing work to be done along the route, although the concrete was all laid last fall.

Chicago Educator Praises School System In Denver

(International News Service)

DENVER, April 14.—The continuous curriculum revision of the Denver public school system leads other American cities in educational advancement, according to Dr. Rollo L. Lyman, professor of English at Chicago University. Dr. Lyman was in Denver to attend a conference of the working committee on revision of English curriculum.

Dr. Lyman discussed three important facts in a talk to 500 Denver teachers on the subject of curriculum revision to meet present day conditions.

First—That the teaching program of today is "becoming naturalized, with the methods left to a great extent to the instructors, to adjust their teaching to the needs and advancement of the child."

Second—That it is correlating the various branches of learning.

Third—Development of individualism.

"Under our modern methods of teaching," said Dr. Lyman, "the pupil's capacities are challenged. Every effort is made to give the child something useful in each grade, so something useful in the high school, even though he should not advance beyond the high school, he will have acquired some learning, that will be of use to him in the daily walks of life."

"While elementary and high school education may complete a certain phase of learning, they must at the same time prepare many students for higher education and this instruction must be handled in such a way that a desire to go further is engendered.

"Teaching of English is becoming more and more closely united with that of other studies—social science, for example. The idea, in Denver, which has maintained a permanent revision committee for ten years, is to encourage reading programs that will best fit pupils for the life of today. Magazines, newspapers and contemporary authors are taking the place of text books."

"The nature of study itself is becoming more democratic and, with the wonderful co-operation that exists between the various branches of teaching in Denver, and between the administering and the teaching forces, Denver's leadership is assured."

Dr. Lyman praised highly the co-operation in the Denver educational department and stated that the system of current curriculum revision in use here is being adopted by cities all over the country.

FIND ICE-COVERED TRAPPER FROZEN TO TREE; RECOVERS

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., April 14.—Freezing to death slowly for hours, his ice-encrusted body found frozen to a tree to which it had frozen, such is the story of Leroy Whitley, South Mills trapper.

To a freezing man, death comes tranquilly, just stealing his senses away. Whitley said. Lost in the Great Dismal Swamp and wandering for hours in the rain and snow of one of the coldest nights during the winter, Whitley leaned against a tree and his mind went blank, he recounted.

Next morning, his upright body was found frozen to the tree.

"I had frozen while standing against the tree," he said, "when W. H. Cartwright and Alonzo Dail found me at about half past seven o'clock. They said that my body was just like a solid block of ice when they discovered me. When they attempted to bend my leg, my overalls snapped and broke, just like a piece of glass. Dail and Cartwright knocked the ice off my clothing and carried me to a doctor in the village."

"At the doctor's my clothing was removed and I was placed on a cot in a warm room. When I recovered consciousness late that afternoon, I saw my wife rubbing my hands, where my fingers had burst. I saw her rubbing, but I could not feel anything. I attempted to speak and couldn't. I was positive that I was paralyzed. It was then that I had the first feeling of fright."

"In a few hours I could talk, but I could feel nothing. For several days I was steamed with a mixture of hot water and pine wood, in which there was much turpentine. My hands are still bandaged, as you can see, and I am afraid I will lose the nails on several of my fingers; otherwise I am in as good condition as I ever was."

Honest confession is probably good for the soul, but it has a habit of worrying confederates.

Conversational Exchange On The Sensation Of Love

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service
Dramatic Editor
Copyright, 1930, By International News Service

NEW YORK, April 14.—Consider a horse-and-buggy racing against a 12-cylinder automobile on the sands of Daytona beach.

Therein may you have the effect of "A Month in the Country," the play written 80 years ago by Ivan Turgenev, compared with the flying pace of the modern stage piece.

"A Month in the Country" is a conversational storm in a Russian drawing room. There are leisurely exchanges on the sensation of love. Of course, the subject was much more dramatic four score years ago before the public education attained sophistication through courtroom dialogue and emotional epigrams in print from the mouths of babes.

A youth from Moscow arrives in the country house to tutor the son of the mistress. With an unawareness of his compelling power, the tutor sets the hearts of his employer and her ward twittering like a school of sparrows on the first day of spring.

Everybody else falls in love with somebody but there is poor synchronization. Tragedy and comedy are quietly blended and characters are revealed lazily and delicately.

SOME DAMAGE IS DONE TO MACHINES

Ray J. Nolte, 707 Cumberland avenue, was enroute east on Long avenue at South Jefferson street Saturday when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 973V9, which was in front of his car, stopped and parked double, causing him to hit and damage the car ahead.

When a considerable part of the way across, for some reason, she turned around and started back toward the starting point and as she did so, she ran into the side of the Nolte car, being knocked onto the running board of the Nolte car.

Mr. Nolte picked her up and took her to her home, then to the office of a physician, where it was found that she had apparently escaped real serious injury. One knee was skinned in the accident.

There was a machine parked on the west side of Wilmington avenue at this point and the Model Baking company truck in attempting to pass between the Beck Floral company truck and the parked machine, hit and damaged the Beck truck.

Gerwyn E. Thomas of 411 Carl street reported that he was enroute east on Mahoning avenue when his machine hit and damaged the car of William Cwynar of 108 Wilder avenue, which was parked on the south side of the street. Mr. Thomas was making a right turn onto Mahoning avenue when the accident occurred.

W. A. Schenck of 1305 Wilmington avenue reported Sunday that his machine was in a collision with the car of William Bailey at the driveway into his home. Some damage was done to both machines.

BUSY PLANTING AT CELERYVILLE

Growers Get 40 Pounds Of Seed To Plant This Season

WILLARD, O., April 14.—Forty pounds of celery seed have been purchased and a third of it already has been sown in preparation for the 1930 season by the 30 families comprising the little community of Celeryville, near here.

These gardens average from five to seventeen acres and the actual outdoor transplanting begins about April 20.

On man is said to be able to transplant between 1,000 and 1,500 plants an hour and about 40,000 are placed on each acre.

It requires the work of three men to care for a five-acre tract of the rich muck gardens.

Irrigation is resorted to on most of the land. This aids in preventing the high winds from blowing the soil away. It also helps the growth of the fancier grades of celery.

Prayer In Congress

The house was called to order at 12 o'clock noon by the speaker pro tempore.

The chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Infinite Father, we thank Thee that when we are in the greatest need Thou art nearest. We praise Thee for all the innumerable mercies which have attended us. Bless our parents who have borne us, our children who dwell in our hearts' desires, and all our households. May all of us live more divinely; lift us high above just physical appetite, empty moralities, and were contentment, and bless us with lives ever fresh, ever new, extending their horizons of love and understanding. O may we not be unworthy of our calling, but in all fidelity, standing for justice when it is cast down, and always pleading for the liberty and the advancement of mankind. In the blessed name of Jesus. Amen.

Mercer County Home Death Rate Is Below Normal

No Epidemics Visit Institution During Past Winter, Keeping Rate Down

MERCER, Pa., April 14.—The death rate at the Mercer county home this year is below normal standards due to the fact that the 210 inmates housed there escaped the usual flu or grip epidemics which claims so many victims among the aged and infirm folks.

The death rate of January ran high, says Superintendent T. C. White, due to the number of very aged patients housed there at that time. The hospital at the home has proved a God-send to a large number of chronic invalids, some of whom were charity and some able to pay for their care.

An average of 45 patients is recorded for the winter. The capacity bed-room at the hospital is 60.

49 SEEK CITIZENSHIP

There will be 49 aliens take the test for citizenship at the naturalization court session scheduled for May 6.

The number is the smallest total in over ten years.

On Monday, May 5, the federal government authorities have notified Prothonotary Daisy T. Morse that they will hold a special court session for a number of aliens they desire to take the test at that time.

PLOWING WELL UNDER WAY

County farmers are figuratively "making hay while the sun shines."

Not for many years has the amount of plowing at this time of the year been up to the total of this year, which is fixed at 60 per cent on a county-wide estimate.

ASK BRIDGE BIDS

Bids will be opened Monday on contracts for the laying of a new floor on Budd avenue in Sharon and the repair and painting of the viaduct bridge.

The structure is one of the oldest viaduct bridges in the county. When built it rated among the big engineering feats in county history up to that time.

TO SURVEY BRIDGES

An immediate survey of 550 bridges in Mercer county is planned by County Commissioner Harry Hunter and County Engineer F. P. Graham.

Following that survey repairs will start. There are two bridge abutments that will have to be built and will be included in a contract for repairs along with what other wants are found needed when the inspection is made.

There will be a larger number than usual of county bridges painted this summer, is the prophecy of Hunter.

EPIDEMICS OVER

Epidemics of children's diseases including measles, whooping cough, mumps and scarlet fever, are over for the year, reports Health Officer Frank Jones.

The numbers are reduced to minimums where they do not rate longer as threatening the health of the juvenile population.

The scarlet fever epidemic which had a nice start in Hickory township, is reduced to a handful of cases.

This was the six-year cycle in which measles are recurrent and there were plenty of them.

MAY PADLOCK CLUBS

County officials here predict the closing of the German club in Farrell as a result of the finding of liquor the two times that the club has been raided within the last month. The club has been operating since last spring under an order of court which makes it mandatory that they have no liquor on the premises. The club officials can be held for contempt of court as the matter stands now, it is pointed out.

A padlocking will be asked for on the club, it is predicted. With the evidence that the police will have to bring against them there is not much doubt of some order of a drastic nature being granted, is the belief here.

In the raid of Friday night about a pint of liquor was obtained; in that of the previous date this month a pop bottle full was obtained. Corporal Marcus White, Troopers Harris and McEwen of the state police and County Detective Sam Leyshock were the raiding party of Friday night.

VETERINARIANS AT WORK

The towns of Sharon, Greenville, Mercer and Grove City have been established as headquarters out of which the 16 veterinarians started work this morning on the third county-wide test of the cattle of Mercer county. The test affects 36,000 head of animals. Dr. H. A. Milo of the state bureau of animal husbandry, who arrived here Friday, states that the testing will take between three and four weeks to complete.

Local Kiwanians To Hear Own Member

Rev. S. L. Maxwell, Epworth Pastor, Speaks Wednesday On "Improving Me"

"Improving Me" is the subject of the address which the Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church will deliver Wednesday at noon when he speaks before the local Kiwanis club, of which he is a member. The message promises to be an interesting one.

Castle Kiwanis have been extended an invitation to the annual dinner in honor of Governor Charles Donley at Pittsburgh on April 23, to be participated in by clubs of the south west, west central and middle west divisions.

The new Pitcairn club has also asked the local service men to attend their charter night program on Thursday, April 24.

Ideal American Wife "Knows Her Spinach"

The ideal wife has been discovered by experimenters at Teachers' college, Columbia University. Through a set of information tests, formulated by the household arts education department of the college, this figure of husbands' and educators' imaginations has been visualized in concrete and dimensional terms.

It appears that the ideal housewife is adept at keeping a house, makes and mends both her and her husband's clothing, does the washing of the household, is the mother of at least one child and is an accomplished diplomat and a financier.

She never groans over her fate of being a housekeeper, and her one object in life seems to be to make home a happier place.

She is an old-fashioned mother who shuns delicatessens, is her own laundress, believes that the family should play games around the fire-side, and that the birthday of every member of the family should be the occasion for festivities.

Makes Own Clothes. Husbands who have been fed from paper sacks and tin cans may be pleased to know that the ideal wife cooks at home and that her choice of food would please a dietitian.

Other husbands who are continually spending lavish amounts for new hats and clothes may be equally surprised to learn that the ideal wife makes the major part of her own wardrobe. This paragon of wifely virtue that the educators of Teachers' college have found is nothing, if not healthy and inexpensive.

The model wife never allows petty fights to break out in her home, for she realizes, according to the test, "that home will be a happier place in which to live if the members of the family are considerate of each other and if they learn to enjoy each other's company."

She passes a great part of her time reading to her children as well as playing games with them, training her children to enjoy putting in time at home and growing plants and flowers to make the home a more attractive place.

She is so accomplished in the art of the cuisine that she can present spinach to her household in such a manner that her family will not merely eat it, but enjoy it.

Spinach is a test of no small importance in the subject of good housewifery. The ideal wife knows that spinach is rich in iron and that the family needs iron. She realizes, however, that the iron is in the spinach and not in the grit.

To eliminate the grit she first washes the spinach in several waters, then puts it on the stove in a small amount of water, cooks it, then chops it finely, then seasons to taste and finally reheats.

Revivals Close At Croton Church

Rev. Margaret Joshua Delivers Soul-Stirring Sermon Last Evening

Revival services, which have been in progress at the Croton M. E. church for the past two weeks, were brought to a most successful termination last evening, when approximately 25 seekers went to the altar at the conclusion of a powerful sermon. Rev. Margaret Joshua, wife of the pastor of the church, who has been preaching throughout the series of services, delivered a soul-stirring sermon, taking as her subject, "There was no room in the Inn."

Mrs. Joshua stated that there seemed to be so little room in the hearts of people today, just as there had been no room for Him when He was brought into the world so many years ago. She made a plea for those who had not taken Christ as their saviour to make the stand on this final evening, and the plea was responded to by many.

If the baby falls on its head, don't worry. The country will always have need of Federal jurors.

British Investors Turn To Canada And America With Money

Survey Shows That United States And Canada Offer Better Investment Advantage

English Industrial Companies Losing Out As Britons Pour Money Into America

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor
(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 14.—That the United States and Canada offer a safer and more attractive field for investment of funds of British investors than the securities of English industrial companies is the conclusion of one of the most prominent London financial experts. The results of a special study of worldwide economic conditions have been given in a confidential report to investors in the British financial center, in an effort to devise for them an investment policy that will stand the test of time.

Extended Survey
After an exhaustive survey of the whole situation, this London financial expert has arrived at the following conclusions:

1.—That the American dollar is the strongest currency in the world, and that "dollar securities" are therefore the most substantial form of investment under the sun.

2.—That the shares of almost all British industrial companies operating at home should be sold, particularly the stock of the older companies.

3.—That, because of the economic, political and climatic advantages of the United States and Canada, a very large proportion of available investment funds should be invested there, instead of "at home."

4.—Common stocks rather than bonds with fixed interest payments should now be preferred by investors looking to the future.

5.—Government bonds and other bonds of almost all the financially weaker countries of the world should be sold.

6.—Stocks of corporations handling commodities should be avoided. Because of the probability of continued declines in commodity prices.

Frankly Pessimistic
This London expert is frankly pessimistic over industrial conditions in England. Industrial prosperity, there, he concludes, is much more than temporarily depressed. England, he says, has failed to keep up with the industrial procession, and her industries are handicapped with antiquated plants, small industrial units, bad management and a high wage level. Other countries have developed the requisite raw material, trained labor, etc., for which they formerly depended upon England, and having developed their industries, have protected them with high tariff walls. For these reasons he despairs of England's regaining her industrial leadership.

The fall in stock prices last October and November has not destroyed, or even modified the American preference for "equities" (common stocks) of favored industrial, railroad and utility corporations, according to this survey. With a downward trend in interest rates and therefore in income returns from fixed investments, it is believed that good stocks will continue to attract the surplus funds of industries rather than bonds. The big problem will be to find "stocks for investors rather than investors for stocks." On that basis he sees a sustained rise in prices of American common stocks.

Members Discuss Meaning Of Rotary

Several Speak At Noon Hour Meeting Of New Castle Club

The true meaning of Rotary to the individual and New Castle as a whole was conveyed to Rotarians of New Castle by two of their own members when they spoke at the club's weekly dinner-meeting at the Castleton today. Dr. S. E. Irvine spoke on the subject, "What Rotary Means to the Individual" while J. Clyde Gilliland spoke on "What Rotary Means to New Castle."

Both Dr. Irvine and Mr. Gilliland pointed out the individual Rotarian's obligations to his city and club, and the unconscious influence of Rotary on any community.

The day's program was sponsored by the club's educational committee, of which George M. Winter is the chairman.

Interspersing the talks of the two speakers were the special violin numbers of Harry Warner and Frank Fuller of the Youngstown Rotary club. Warner handled the violin while Fuller presided at the piano.

A meeting of the club's board of directors followed the program.

Tarentum Negro Is Held For Shooting

(International News Service)
TARENTUM, Pa., April 14.—William Russom, a Negro, was held here today in connection with the shooting of Louis Walker, also a Negro, of this place, in a shooting fray which occurred at the Penn Iron and Steel Company plant near Tarentum.

Walker was in a serious condition at the Valley hospital today, suffering from five bullet wounds.

That reported discovery of a new planet is interesting, but will hardly get as much attention as the discovery of a new movie star.

Camden Jewelry Store Is Robbed By Three Thugs

(International News Service)
CAMDEN, N. J., April 14.—After binding a young girl clerk with rope three youthful bandits robbed the jewelry store of Abe Furman, 444 Broadway, today of watches and diamonds valued at $2500.

Buelah Eckard, the stenographer and clerk, freed herself shortly after the trio left and gave the alarm. She said the men must have escaped in an automobile.

Miss Eckard, who lives in Merchantville, said that a few minutes after she had opened the store a man came in to look at some watches and within a few minutes he was joined by two others carrying suitcases. The last two whipped out pistols and forced her into a back room where she was trussed up. The men then filled their suitcases with loot and fled.

Evade Traffic In Answering Alarm

Firemen from Central station, operating the Pirsch truck, adopted a new wrinkle in answering an alarm in the Croton district this morning, when they went out North street and used the new North street bridge to get away from the traffic on Washington street.

A little time was saved by this expedient, so some good use can be attributed to the North street structure.

Great Britain Ends Financial Year With $72,610,000 Deficit

LONDON, April 14.—Great Britain ended her 1929 financial year with a deficit of 14,522,000 pounds (about $72,610,000). Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden announced in the House of Commons today in revealing the terms of his 1930 budget.

This huge deficit was piled up, Snowden said, although his conservative predecessor in office, Winston Churchill, had estimated probable surplus of 4,096,000 pounds (about $20,480,000).

The total debt weight debt of the nation on March 31, 1930, Snowden revealed, was 7,469,000,000 pounds (about $37,500,000,000) for the previous year.

The 1929 revenue in spirits and beer taxes was 3,200,000 pounds (about $16,000,000) below the estimate, but the tobacco tax showed surplus of 2,800,000 pounds (about $14,000,000).

"This, I understand, was due largely to social economy and equality of the sexes," Snowden declared.

An increased revenue was noted from entertainment taxes. This, the chancellor said, probably was due to the boom in talking pictures.

During the trial Marchand said he made love to Lila, who had posed for him, because of "professional necessity."

dian, Joseph Buntman and Joseph Buntman in his own right against
F. C. Thompson of North Beaver township, was taken up before Judge J. A. Chambers at court this forenoon.This is an action for damages as a result of an automobile accident on the Mt. Jackson-New Castle road. According to the plaintiffs they were coming to New Castle, and caught up with Thompson on a hill. Buntman, who was driving says that he sounded his horn to pass. As he pulled out to pass, Buntman claims that Thompson pulled his car out toward the center of the road, after the horn had been sounded by Buntman, signifying his intention of passing.Ida Kline asks $15,000 damages and Buntman, $500.France is building a school to honor

HELD CONTROL
OVER CHICAGOPEORIA, Ill., April 14.—The great city of Chicago, at one time, was under the control of Peoria county and authorities here had sufficient power to tell innkeepers in the lake city that they could charge no more than 12½ cents for a night's lodging.This was revealed in an address before the Kiwanis club of this city recently by the speaker, George Shurt-leff, in a talk on Peoria county's early history. Chicago is now a part of Cook county.Back in 1825, however, Shurtleff related, Peoria county extended north to Lake Michigan and the Wisconsin line, including the site of the present city of Chicago. Chicagoans were required in those days to come to Peoria, the county seat, for a marriage license and the edict of the tavern prices was made possible by the fact that at that time innkeepers were required to secure a license from the county in which they were operated.The year 1825 also saw the first trial in this city of a criminal case of any consequence, Shurtleff said.
A man was tried for petty larceny and was sentenced by the judge to receive a flogging—40 stripes upon the bare back. The prisoner's attorney moved for a new trial but before arguing the motion stepped out of the court room. During his absence the jurist decided the punishment fitted the case and the prisoner received the thrashing. The attorney then returned and, not being aware of the judge's action, started to argue upon the new trial plea. The prisoner, however, interrupted the proceedings, declaring he wished no further trial.The first murder trial held in the county also furnished a queer contrast to present procedure, Shurtleff related. An Indian was found guilty of slaying a Frenchman and appeal was taken to the state supreme court.
In those early days a community was required to furnish, at its own expense, a guard for those charged with felonies. When four months had passed and the high court had not as yet passed upon the appeal, the community's coffers were so depleted by the Indian that a new meeting was held and it was decided to permit the Indian to escape. First, the unfortunate Aborigine was compelled to run between two lines of men, who inflicted various and sundry punishments upon him as he raced by.Westminster Fraternities

The pastorate of Rev. A. M. Stump of the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church will conclude its fifth year the later part of April. At the Sunday evening service there was a reunion of the catechumens he has received into membership of the church during his term of service here.

There were about 110 of the 154 catechumens received, present at last night's service and the anthem by the Young People's choir was a feature. At the morning service Sunday there were 24 received into membership by confirmation and 9 by letter.

The pastor's evening subject was "The Lord Hath Need of You" and he brought out the thought that to be happy and successful in this life we must adjust ourselves to God, to the world and to ourselves, presenting some forceful statements along this line.

The catechumens of the five years will meet at a dinner Tuesday evening, April 22, at 6:30 in the church.

START STUDY OF RELIGION AT COLUMBIA

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 14.—Investigations into the history of religion in America, requiring many years to complete, are being made by students of Columbia University under the direction of Prof. Herbert W. Schneider.

The project, which is one phase of an extensive program of research in religion at Columbia, according to a recent announcement is in part supported by the Council of Research in the Humanities. The publication next fall of "Puritanism" by Prof. Schneider will mark the beginning of a series of volumes in this field.

"The first group of studies center about some of the less conventional and well known religious movements of this country," Prof. Schneider explained. "The aim has been to select for study certain cults which illustrate experiments in social organization on the basis of religious ideas, as well as unusual and spontaneous types of theology."

"These studies are therefore not primarily concerned with the truth or falsity of certain beliefs, but with the social causes and consequences of such beliefs, with the customs, rites, arts and imagination cultivated by distinct religious groups. There are, for example, the various types of religious communism, of sex symbolism, of escape and compensation, of spiritual healing, etc."

"The facts which come to light in such investigations are significant not only for the interpretation of the nature of religion, but also for our understanding of the effect of American society and environment in modifying the various cultures and traditions which have been imported to this country."

"Among the religious groups now being studied from this point of view are Reform Judaism, Spiritualists, Theosophists, Vedantists, Swedenborgians, Christian Science, Moravians, The Brotherhood of the New Life, Universalists and Free Thinkers."

"In this way, it is hoped, a comprehensive history of religion in America will be built up gradually, which will add an important dimension to the general history of American society and thought."

Associated with Prof. Schneider in this undertaking are: George Lawton, Alvin B. Kuhn, Wendell Thomas, Alvin B. Kuhn, Elizabeth F. Kennedy, Marguerite Block, G. A. Koch, Joseph G. Haroutunian, Jacob Sessler, Melba F. Wilson, Beryl Levy, Israel Eisenstein.

The Bush Collection of Religion and Culture, which consists of several thousand photographs, lantern slides, books, and religious objects, largely the gift to the University of Prof. Wendell T. Bush, has grown considerably during the past year and is proving increasingly useful in the study and teaching of religion at the University, Prof. Schneider said.

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 14.—The Rev. John Lowrie Anderson, Khartoum, The Sudan, a graduate of Westminster in the class of 1922, was the preacher at the stated chapel service of the college last night. Rev. Mr. Anderson, home on furlough after four years of teaching and missionary work in the Sudan, spoke as a representative of the board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian church.

Rev. Mr. Anderson, a former resident of New Wilmington, told of conditions in the Sudan, praise the Sudanese people told some of his experiences as a "doctor," and told of the need of doctors, teachers, and preachers in the foreign field.

He appealed to the students of the college to decide their life work in terms of service. He told of the variety of jobs to be done and the variety of talents which may be used in foreign missionary work, and ended by saying, "Only one kind of missionary is wanted in the Sudan: one with the spirit of Christ."

Felix Awakens From Six Month's Sleep

There was a continued scratching on the screen of the back door. Mrs. Roy Smith, of Huron avenue, went to investigate. Felix had arrived.

Felix is a pet groundhog and he was really booked to arrive on February 2, but Felix was tired, and being a very smarted up on weather conditions generally, he knew that there would be at least 6 more weeks of winter weather.

About this time last year, Felix, then just a little baby groundhog, was brought home by Mr. Smith, where it was raised on a bottle. He became a great pet—was even trained to sit up. He solved the problem of getting into the kitchen of the Smiths by chewing a hole in the screen door, just large enough to enable him to go in and out of the house, at will. In October, of last year, Felix dug

Old Currency Fast Going Out Of Existence, Learned Here

Although the new small-sized currency has been in circulation only a few months, the large bills it supplanted have almost disappeared. Less than 1 per cent of the paper money in circulation, according to a banker here, is of the old-fashioned large size.

In the less populated districts a larger percentage of the money is the old type. The majority of the old size bills are of the large denominations, from 10's to 50's.

When the old money is received from customers of the bank the tellers place it to one side and when 500 of the same denomination have been collected the old money is sent to one of the correspondent banks. The local bank then receives credit for the old money or new money in exchange.

"The new paper is inferior to the paper used in the bills a few years ago," a teller says and to illustrate his point he picked up one of the new bills and gave it several sharp pulls. The bill tore in the middle. The same test on one of the old bills failed to separate it.

The average life of a dollar bill is six months, although it is doubtful if the new paper will wear that long, he declared.

More than 20 different types of bills are now in circulation and few people notice the different seals and features on the money they carry. The Federal Reserve bank note is the most rare of the currency in use, although the ordinary federal note is quite common.

Very little gold is circulated except around the holidays, when the demand grows for gold coins to be given for presents, he said. With handling, gold wears off rapidly and often ten of fifteen cents worth of gold will be found to have disappeared when the coin is weighed, this loss is carried by the bank and a five dollar gold piece will be exchanged by any bank for an equal amount of other currency.

When questioned about counterfeit money and its detection the teller, who handles thousands of dollars every day said that he had very few experiences with bogus money. Nevertheless all employees of banks are always on the watch for counterfeit bills and never make an exchange without scrutinizing all money handed over the counter.

Counterfeit is most readily detected in the photograph of the face of a bill as the engraving is generally of inferior workmanship. On the face of a bill is printed, besides the denomination and a photograph, the serial number and whether the bill is a silver certificate, federal bank note or one of the many other types.

Examination will also disclose a seal and printed through the seal is an explanation of the use to which the bill may be put. Some money is not acceptable in the payment of duty on imports. Other bills are legal tender only to certain amounts, but gold can never be refused as tender for any payment.

Youth Is Fatally Wounded Playing Target Practice

Target Practice In McKeesport Backyard Is Fatal To Youth Today

(International News Service)

McKEESPORT, Pa., April 14.—Albert Swainson, eleven year old McKeesport schoolboy, began his Easter vacation today by summoning his neighboring chums to engage in target practice with a .22 calibre gun in the rear of his home.

One of the lads took aim at the target and fired. Albert screamed and fell to the ground, a bullet in his neck.

He was rushed to McKeesport hospital where he died soon after admission.

Police, who have not yet determined who fired the shot, indicated no arrests would be made.

No Pronounced Spring Epidemic Of Truancy Among School Children

Although it has been the general opinion that, in spring, an epidemic of truancy spreads among school children, no marked increase in truancy has, as yet been shown in the New Castle public schools, according to Mrs. W. J. Beiersmith, city truant officer.

"There are some children who find it irksome to spend five hours a day in school, regardless of the weather outside," says Mrs. Beiersmith. "There is, of course, a slight increase in the number of truants, with the arrival of the lovely spring weather.

a hole in the back yard and went to sleep, there, for the winter. When February 2 had passed and still no sign of pet groundhog, Mrs. Smith had begun to think that Felix had come out of the hole and had gone to the woods.

But, no such thing. Felix' first thought when coming out of the ground, was to go to the Smith home. With sleepy eyes, an empty stomach, the groundhog scratched at the door. He was a little annoyed that the hole which he had so nicely chewed the year before, had been patched up. That meant that he would have to go to work, one of these days, and chew another hole.

Felix is now busy nibbling at cookies. For the next week or so, he will be kept pretty busy, making up for all the food he has missed since October.

Suspect Arrested In Detroit Slaying

Man Slain Because He Knew Too Much About Official's Death Is Belief

(International News Service)

DETROIT, April 14.—Joe Borello, driver of small coupe with 1929 Indiana license plates, was arrested today as a suspect in the gangland murder of Jimmy Walters, believed slain because he knew too much about the attempted assassination last January 2 of police Inspector Henry J. Garvin, former head of the crime and bomb squad.

A small car, with 1929 license plates, was reported used by the killers of Walters. Borello was arrested after he attempted to escape when a radio cruiser crew commanded him to surrender.

Two men felled Walters in a cross-fire of revolver bullets as he tinkered with his car last night in the side drive of his home. The killers escaped in a car waiting for them at the curb.

Police Commissioner Harold H. Emmons ordered an investigation to see if there is any connection with the Garvin shooting.

Three Coal-Iron Policemen Seek New Trial For Involuntary Manslaughter

(International News Service)

FRANKLIN, Pa., April 14.—Preparations neared completion today for an appeal to Judge William M. Parker in criminal court here Wednesday to grant a new trial to Walter J. Lyster and Harold P. Watts, former coal and iron policemen, who were convicted February 6 on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

The convictions grew out of the brutal slaying 14 months ago of Jno. Borkowski, Tyre miner-farmer. Lyster and Watts along with Frank Slapikas were acquitted in Pittsburgh last fall of a murder charge in the case.

Attorneys Charles B. Prichard and Edward G. Coll will seek a new trial on the grounds, the Commonwealth proved murder and not manslaughter against the two men. The state, represented by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and his assistant Roy T. Clunk, will oppose the move.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 14.—A gossipy neighbor was blamed today for the death of Louise Crawford, 40, wife of Frank D. Crawford, broker and former theatre manager.

Crawford calmly called police and told them he choked his wife to death in a jealous rage, after a neighbor had told him his wife "ran around with women who sometimes ran around with men other than their husbands."

In National League It Looks Like Cubs, Giants, Pirates
Says Davis Walsh

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, April 14.—To one who waits, the second is always a minute, the minute an hour and the hour a day and so the hands of the clock seemed listless, almost reluctant to a nation of fans who today awaited their annual tryst with professional baseball. For one day only, drama comes to baseball and touches it with the magic wand of romance, after which it blandly settles down to tedium and routine for the next six months.

The day falls due tomorrow, except in the city of Washington where with the Senators-Red Sox opening they decided to beat the gun this afternoon. Possibly because they feel they ought to make sure of beating something before the end of the season. The rest of them wait for twenty-four hours and, to hear their managers tell it in the strict privacy of the newspapers, they can hardly wait.

The fact of the matter is that about ten of the sixteen clubs might as well hire out to the Cotton States League. They want to be with us long enough to hear the third cheer in the customary series of three.

Cubs, Giants, Pirates
The Cubs, Giants and Pirates are natural first division clubs in the National League. Some of the others have a fighting chance. The rest of them have none.

In the American League, the Athletics and Yankees are inevitable contenders, with Cleveland, St. Louis and Detroit apparently to run a three-team race toward a two-prize finish.

As a matter of fact, the form sheets say there are no contenders at all: just a couple of champions that won so far off in 1929 that they ought to be arrested if they don't repeat. None of the challenging clubs have been substantially improved. Some of them even have slipped back a little between seasons.

Will Miss Grimes
Take the National League, for example. The Giants still are looking for a centerfielder and may lack the right to answer at another key position, second base. The Pirates have just traded away one of the best right hand pitchers in baseball, taking in exchange one of the most ordinary of the left hand pitchers in baseball. Their infield could be bolstered: in fact, I suspect that some of it even ought to be matted. The cards also need infielders and pitchers. The spirit of rampant youth might help a little, too.

The significant feature of this situation is that the improved clubs are those who will have to come all the way from the second division before they can challenge anybody's leadership.

This is pretty much so in the American League, too, where we find the Tigers and White Sox generally conceded to have bettered themselves over the off season.

Yanks Not So Good
Both finished well out of the money last year. The Yankees are supposed to furnish much of the contention. Yet they have a few third basemen and left fielder, an odd failure at shortstop and the question of whether Ruth will be Ruth and the pitchers will stand the racket.

So far as I can see, the Yanks simply have too many questions and not enough answers.
The Indians have a few questions, too, with a kid combination at second base and the matter of whether Foss, the batting champion will come up smiling from his recent illness. The Browns need another outfielder and their infield isn't championship class; the Tigers won't come forward without pitchers and a shortstop, the White Sox have the same weakness as the Dodgers, outfield defense, and the Senators simply have outlived themselves.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox remain the Red Sox.

Braves Strengthened

The trade of Grimes to Boston will make the National League race tougher but this shouldn't disconcert any champion that has the hitting and pitching of the Cubs. Hornsby may have developed an ingrown heel but if Harnett really has come back, the Cubs ought to side into the pennant. The young man means a lot to the Chicago pitchers.

Speaking of which, the Phils have almost none, a fact that probably will keep them out of the first division. The Reds have none too many, either, but the real weakness of this outfit is found in their fielders who cannot hit and their hitters who cannot field. The Braves need a new infield, also a new punch. In fact, anything new up there is liable to be better automatically.

As for the champion Athletics, the left side of their infield isn't fool proof. But they won a pennant and a world's championship with it last year, so they probably will decline to worry about this in a very pointed manner. Besides, how can a club go wrong with those pitchers and hitters?

Training Camps Briefs

(International News Service)
DETROIT, April 14.—Spring training and the drag of exhibition games behind them, the Detroit Tigers take their final workout today in preparation for tomorrow's opening game against the St. Louis Browns.

When the squad reported for work there were two of the athletics missing. Henry Greenberg and Johnny Watson were given tickets last night for Hartford in the Eastern league.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14.—The per-season training activities of the championship Chicago Cubs was brought to a close today. It was an inauspicious close for the barnstorming season, for the Kansas City Blues were on the long end of a 10 to 9 score in yesterday's final game.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Things were all twisted around as the Chicago White Sox wound up their exhibition series with the New York Giants here yesterday. The Sox took a 5 to 4 victory, but the bats of the three Chicago pitchers played a vital part in all the runs, and Smead Jolley, not rated as a defensive power, saved the game with a diving catch in the third inning.

CINCINNATI, O., April 14.—A three-run rally in the eighth frame today had shunted out a 6 to 5 win for the Cleveland Indians over the Cincinnati Reds. The two-game series which ended yesterday.

Mushball Play Opens May 12

Schedule Committee Meets
And Fixes Opening Date
Along With Program

The New Castle Mushball league will open on Monday night, May 12, with four games on tap. The opening date was set yesterday at a meeting of the schedule committee. A schedule running through May, to the third week in August was perfected and only the official adoption by the league managers at their meeting April 25, is necessary.

With sixteen teams in two divisions, and to allow each team to play twice a week, was a tough job for the schedule makers. The following met with President Walther for the purpose of making up the mushball program: Carl C. Cover, Radiator Works; Arnold "Piz" Fraser, Shenango Tins; "Al" Owens and Lindy Bruce, Phalanx; and Alec Samuels, who is to be one of the commissioners of the league.

The season was divided into two halves, with the first half ending with games on June 26 in the Industrial League and on June 27 in the Mercantile League. The second half will open on July 7 for the Industrial league and on July 8 for the Mercantile league.

Will End August 22
The mushball season is scheduled to end on August 22. The week of August 25 will be the playoffs in both divisions if such is necessary, the winner of the first half to meet the winner of the second half for the division title. The week of September 1 will find the championship games on hand, with the winners of each division battling in a three game series for the championship.

There will be four games each night arranged as follows: Monday and Thursday the Industrial League will play, and on Tuesday and Friday the Mercantile league will play. Wednesday has been left open each week for the playing off of postponed games, also the time intervening between the first and second halves can be utilized for postponed games, due to rain and other causes.

Need Playing Fields
There is considerable enthusiasm being shown in the mushball play here this year as evidenced by the sixteen teams in the league and upwards of 350 or 400 men will be playing mushball here, which by the way happens to be the largest existing league in New Castle and also provides the greatest manpower.

The biggest bone of contention seems to be the matter of playing fields; right now the league has two fields promised for use, the Lehigh Cement and the Radiator Field. Superintendent Tully and Safety Director Miller of the Carnegie Steel Mill have willingly donated the use of a playing field at the steel mill and there is every possibility that this fine offer will be accepted. An effort to secure the excellent George Washington Junior high field for mushball this year is being made at the present time.

Burlie Grimes is no sleep walker, but he went into a snooze the other night with the second-story Pirates and woke up in the cellar—with the Boston Braves.

Maxey Rosenbloom, the uncrowned king of the light heavyweights, appears in a New York street supporting a silk kelly. There was a time when a boxer wearing one of those couldn't get any further than the morgue.

Strange as it may seem, last year's unpires are wearing blue serge again, though most of the fans thought they would be sporting stripes.

The next time Jack Dempsey says he's thinking of retiring we'll know he's having auto trouble.

Things could be worse. Supposing they put wrestling matches on the television!

Moron Mike, the giggle gas station operator, insists that Babe Ruth get rid of his charley horse. He thinks the Bambino is too big to be a jockey.

"Play Ball" Echoes Everywhere

More Spring cheer than the songs of robins bring will come to baseball fans throughout the land this afternoon when the traditional leather-lunged umpire bawls "Play ball!" at Washington, D. C., where the Boston Red Sox are scheduled to play the local Senators, weather permitting. It is the lone opening game of the day.

President Hoover has promised to throw the first ball, thus putting the most august seal of executive approval on our national game. Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, organizer of the first half to meet the winner of the second half for the division title. The week of September 1 will find the championship games on hand, with the winners of each division battling in a three game series for the championship.

There will be four games each night arranged as follows: Monday and Thursday the Industrial League will play, and on Tuesday and Friday the Mercantile league will play. Wednesday has been left open each week for the playing off of postponed games, also the time intervening between the first and second halves can be utilized for postponed games, due to rain and other causes.

Washington And Boston Get Jump On Other Teams By Staging Inaugural Today

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 14.—Boston's Red Sox and Washington's Nationals, neither of which is going any place particularly in the pennant race this year if the experts are to be believed, pry the lid off the 1930 baseball season in the Capital today.

Thanks to the idiosyncrasies of the schedule makers the opening day's hostilities will be confined to these teams. And even they may not get to perform, for the weather man was dubious this morning. Predicting local thundershowers.

President Hoover will throw out the first ball, when, as and if the game gets started at 3 p. m. there will be many vacant desks in the government departments and in congress.

Harlansburg Boys Win Eleven And Lose Three In Schedule Of Hard Games

The Harlansburg Independent basketball team closed a successful season recently. The Harlansburg boys won eleven and lost three this year. It was the first season of play for the team. Jack Llewellyn was high scorer on the team with 114 field goals.

Llewellyn's greatest feat this year was against the Portersville team when he caged the ball eighteen times. Clarence Cunningham, former New Castle High grid star playing his first year of basketball was also among the high scorers on the team. Another player who made his debut this year was Dale Brown and he held down a guard job of perfection. Ellis Boyde was the other guard and he did fine work this season. Sid McCracken played the running mate job to Llewellyn and proved a big help to the team making a number of field goals. He is a former Harlansburg High School player. Harry Campbell was also a forward on the team and played very well throughout the season.

Only three teams succeeded in winning from the Harlansburg boys they were the Smith Cleaners, Jacksville and Wesley M. E. of the New Castle Church League.

Miner Who Won $50,000 On Race Plans To Quit Working

By GILMORE MILLEN
International News Service Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 14.—"So he took the $50,000, and . . ."

That's all that happened so far.

Taking the $50,000 so glibly wise-cracked about is simple.

George Fischer, a fifty-one year old miner from Butte, Mont., did that, when his $2 sweepstake ticket on Victorian won him $51,750 at the Agua

Caliente handicap.

But doing something with the $50-

000, outside of quitting a $5 a day job, well try it yourself some day, if you ever find the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, after struggling along on a salary the best part of half a century.

It takes a lot of thought.

George Fischer is in Los Angeles doing just that kind of thinking.

"Get married?"

"Well," he says, "I don't know. I'm looking them over as they pass right now. And being glad that I've gone this long without getting married. Or there'd some ex-wife bobbing up to to get her hands on half of what I won."

"Buy an automobile?"

"Maybe, and then maybe not. The papers said the other day that I was going to buy the biggest automobile that I could buy, and I got a kick out of reading about that. It was bunk.

"I'd like to have a car but I can't even run one."

"Go to Europe?"

"No, I don't think I am. I'm not going to get swell headed and throw this money away like that."

"I'm going to retire, and never work any more."

"I've been around the mines almost

25 years and doing everything from mucking ore on up to sampling. The best job I ever had was the one I just quit, weighing in cars of ore, at $5 a day. Then I was a clerk at a hotel, that my brother owns here in Los Angeles for eight years, too. I've done lots of work in my time. And now I'm going to take that money and do a lot of resting, after I get it all invested in something safe and sound.

"I thought a long time, before I bought that $2 ticket," he tells. Two or three days, and I couldn't decide whether to take it or not. The fellow kept after me and he kept saying that the race then was only forty days away.

"I'm not what you'd call one of these professional ticket buyers. I never bought a ticket on a race in my life until two years ago, and the one that won was about the fourth

I've ever bought.

"They all asked me how I happened to get the winning ticket. I've thought about it myself, and all I can say is that I made up my mind to buy it right at the right time. If

I'd made up my mind any sooner, somebody else would have got it. If

I'd waited another hour it would have been gone.

"I was sure surprised when they

The man who spits in public places is no worse an offender against public decency than the workman who rolls cigars with dirty fingers and tips the ends with spit. And remember, more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Britain's Free Trade Party Dealt Possible Death Blow By Australian Luxury Tax

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service Cable Editor

NEW YORK, April 14.—Proponents of Free Trade between all component parts of the British Empire, among whom are numbered some of England's greatest industrialists and capitalists, have been dealt what may prove a death-blow by the Labor government of Australia.

By inaugurating a super-tax on luxury imports, resulting in creation of the highest tariff wall now existing anywhere throughout the world, Prime Minister J. H. Scullin of Australia has squashed the hopes of those who would weld the British Empire into one tremendous trade hegemony, with absolute freedom of export and import between the Mother Country and her far-flung colonies.

Premier Scullin's super-tax is particularly significant, in that it is proof of Australia's desire to remain aloof from England in every way save allegiance to the British flag and the throne. While not objecting to being a colony of England, Australia wants to stand alone, to build up her own industries and to be economically independent of the Mother land.

A glance at the items included as "luxuries" in the new Australian tariff schedule gives striking evidence of the determined efforts of Premier Scullin to build up home industries even at the expense of England's trade revenues.

Approximately eighty articles are excluded entirely from import. They include certain citrus fruits, radio sets, iron and steel beams, various farming implements, furs, skins, cheese, gasoline pumps and electric and gas heaters. Scores of other products are placed on a ration, including manufactured tobacco, cigarettes, snuff, locomotives, spirituous liquors and matches.

Scullin's drastic measure in behalf of Australian fiscal autonomy is both hailed and censured in Britain. Many prominent newspapers and men loudly applaud the action, and some believe it will put a final stop to the Empire Free Trade agitation which has been sponsored by Lord Rothermere multi-millionaire newspaper publisher.

The new tariff schedule is bound to be felt in England, which has long considered Australia one of the chief markets for its exports. The world war deprived England of many outlets for her products, and during the last few years the colonies have been the principal purchasers of British-made goods.

By prohibiting certain commodities from importation entirely, Premier Scullin has given an impetus to Australian industry absolutely without parallel in the history of that nation. Many of the items classed as "luxuries" are really every day necessities, which Australia herself has been capable of manufacturing. Now, with the competition of England removed, these industries will have an unprecedented opportunity to expand.

Free Traders, bemoaning the strictness of the new schedule, declare that the tariff will fail to aid Australian unemployment, as it will cripple the distributing agencies in the Commonwealth. Supporters of the trade barrier retort that any setback in this classification will be counterbalanced by improvements within the industries themselves.

The Empire Free Trade movement has had a precarious existence since its inception. It was started by Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook, the two giants of the English newspaper world, but a few weeks after the project was set in motion, Beaverbrook dropped out.

Since then, Rothermere has carried on agitation in behalf of the scheme with undiminished zeal in his various newspapers, and it is unlikely that even the Australian defeat will cause him to throw in the sponge. Political observers believe, however, that Scullin's schedule has sounded the death-knell of the movement, at least for the time being.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Two junior Marco Polos created plenty of excitement for their families Sunday evening. The pair of them live on the South Side and have already passed six years of age, each of them. In that six years however they have imbibed some of the spirit that made Lindbergh and Byrd and Balboa famous and at various times they start out on exploration trips.

Late Sunday afternoon they disappeared. Perhaps they had decided to go west and shoot Indians, or perhaps drop in on some of the folks in Australia. When it got dark they were not home, at nine o'clock they were still missing and at eleven they were called, the police were called and anybody who might have any knowledge of them. No sale.

About midnight one of the family checked in from a trip outside the city and mentioned that the lights in a relative's home out on Wilmington avenue were burning. As a last resort the posse started out for the Wilmington avenue home and after getting into the house found our two young heroes fast asleep in bed.

Somehow they had gotten in, rustled themselves a lunch and decided to get some sleep before continuing their westward trip or wherever it was they were going.

Joe De Pugh made a trip into the office this morning to register a word in favor of the hitch hikers. "How do you get these ways?" queried Dr. De Pugh. "I suppose you never hooked a ride on a freight or thumbed your way across a state or two. Give the boys a chance."

"Sell right with me. Give them a chance, give them a couple of chances if you like. And a cup of coffee."

And as for hooking rides, there are a number of us who still owe the traction company a few nickles for rides in from the baseball games when New Castle was a leader in the old O. & P. league. And if the company will make out a bill some of us will pay it.

The reference to the old O. & P. brings to mind the days when Schlatter and Bowers and Pinckney and Hagen, and Briggs and Jackson, and Smith and Weiman and the rest of that historic host played on the Cascade Ball lot for New Castle. Remember how you could always get to carry Kid Hagen's shoes into the game from the street car and thus promote yourself a free seat at the game.

It seems to be the mode this spring to get a couple of chocolate Easter eggs with somebody's name engraved on them in frosting. Not that it hasn't been before, but this year seems to be a particularly heavy year for the sport.

That improvement of Grant and Butler avenues, will be an improvement all of us will appreciate, but it seems to me that we can appreciate it even more when we remember that that state is paying $75,000.00 of it.

Infants' Home Is Hit By Lightning

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, April 14.—Thunder lightning and the 13th of the month arrived at St. Rita's home for infants all on the same day yesterday.

A bolt of lightning struck the chimney of the institution to the accompaniment of a terrific peal of thunder while the children, ranging in age from infancy to five years, were assembled for the evening meal.

No panic among the children, nor any impairment of appetite was noted. Damage to the home was slight.

They used to hide their rouge, now they rouge their hide.

World's Most Valuable Cow Pasture To Bow To Progress

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Ill., April 14.—The most valuable cow-pasture in the world—a 10 acre tract in the center of the fashionable Hyde Park residential district here—is to be the site of a modern real estate development, it has become known.

The property, its development arrested by the terms of an eccentric old man's will, has been used for almost forty years as a pasture and small garden. For the past five years a portion of the land has been leased by the Hyde Park Racquet Club. The property has an estimated worth of $2,000,000.

When John Dunham, pioneer Chicago banker, died in 1893, his will stipulated that his pasture and other real estate holdings could not be disposed of until the death of his direct heirs.

An old-fashioned three-story house, situated in downtown Michigan Avenue, near the Congress, Blackstone, and other famous hotels, was the residence of the last Dunham, an elderly day, forced to live in "aristocratic poverty" by the terms of that strange will.

Miss Dunham died in 1928 and the remaining heirs and beneficiaries of the will, distant relatives and charitable institutions, have arranged with a New York syndicate for the erection of a $10,000,000 apartment building on the 10-acre pasture.

Hyde Park will no longer see Dunham caretaker milking cows and picking garden truck for delivery to the Michigan Avenue residence of the Chicago pioneer.

Three Electrocuted In Plane Mishap

Airplane Settles In Mesh Of High Tension Wires On Sunday

(International News Service) YPSILANTI, Mich., April 14.—An airplane which settled in a network of high tension electric wires and was transformed into a high torch today had brought the electrocution of three men and serious injury to a fourth.

Attempting a landing at the airport here late yesterday, the plane swung too low and crashed into the power transmission cables. Hanging suspended, it broke into flames.

The death list: Levi Keppler, 24, teller of an Ann Arbor bank; Willard Clawson, 60, retired farmer of Ypsilanti; Harry Walters, 28, Ypsilanti airport mechanic. Pilot Leon Hanselmann, 24, was thrown clear of the plane by the impact.

Keppler, the only passenger, was posed of until the death of his direct heirs.
